1988 legislation to alter school board elections

BY DENA BISNETTE

A change in the state school board election law is expected to affect the Hancock County Beat Three and Beat Four School Board races in the November election.

The new law, House Bill 1127, was enacted during the 1988 legislative session. It repeals several sections of the Mississippi Code of 1972, including one which authorized Hancock County to elect its school board members at large.

Hancock County School Board Attorney Joseph Gex said Wednesday morning that he expected the school board to approve a resolution on the matter at a special Wednesday night meeting.

"We have no choice but to pass a resolution complying with House Bill 1127," Gex said.

Gex said he or Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph would present the resolution to the board of supervisors on Thursday.

However, Randolph stated later Wednesday that he does not expect to do so because he has not even read the bill and wants an attorney general's ruling first.

"I heard about it this morning through Gerald Gex (attorney for the board of supervisors) and I have a board meeting this afternoon, so I haven't had much time to even think about it," he said.

The school board members do represent specific beats but have, in the past, been elected under Section 37-5-13, a local and private bill allowing several counties including Hancock to elect its school board members by a countywide vote, excepting only those areas included in municipal or special municipal school districts.

Run-off elections were also allowed in school board races under Section 35-5-11.

Under House Bill 1127, both sections are repealed, discontinuing the run-off elections as well as the at-large elections. The candidate with the majority of the votes, no matter what the percentage, will be the school board member.

The board of supervisors is expected to make a resolution on Thursday in compliance with the school board resolution, then submit the matter to the Hancock County Election Commission.

According to Hancock County Election Commission President Charles Gottschalk, the election commission will then meet to make its own resolutions regarding how the election will be conducted.

Gottschalk explained that a few extra voting machines will be needed if an election by beats is held, because some of the precincts are split between the city and county school districts.

For example, one precinct includes eight families in the county school district, and those people must be allowed to vote in that particular election.

Gex, however, said the matter is more complicated than simply changing an at-large race to a district election.

The attorney explained that the county has been pre-cleared by the U.S. Department of Justice regarding the supervisors' districts, which comply with the provisions of the Voting Rights Act.

The county has not been pre-cleared for school board districts.

Gex said he contacted an assistant state attorney general on Wednesday morning, who told him it was not likely that any county in Mississippi had been pre-cleared for school board districts.

What Gex received was a verbal opinion from the attorney general's office, which is not the ruling Randolph wants. A written opinion is considered official, and a ruling results only when the matter is brought into one of the office's committees for discussion and decision.

The attorney said the beats for any election are apportioned according to voter population, which would be different in the school board elections because the people who live in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District are excluded.

A CROWD of concerned, and often vocal, citizens, afraid they might lose their property when the boundary between privately held uplands and state-owned public trust tidelands is determined, filled the courtroom of the Hancock County Courthouse Tuesday for a meeting of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Trust Tidelands. Tideland commission flooded by area's concerned residents

BY D.C. HARVILL

Residents of several area subdivisions, concerned about whether the state is going to take away their property as part of public trust tidelands, flooded the courtroom of the Hancock County Courthouse when the commission on public trust tidelands met there Tuesday.

More than 200 residents of Shoreline Park, Garden Isles, Herron Bay Estates and other subdivisions, parts of which may have been built on filled tidelands, packed the courtroom where the Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Trust Tidelands was holding its fourth meeting and public hearing.

There was an obvious air of tension at the beginning of the meeting, as people crowded outside the courtroom doors, on the landings and stairways, persistently interrupted, asking questions and saying they couldn't hear.

By all indications the crowd was unanimously concerned that the state is going to take away their land in asserting legal claim to land subject to the mean, or average, high tide.

"It's getting to be just like communism," and "They can't do this, it just ain't right," could be heard among the mumbling that filled the courtroom.

Commissioner and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz helped calm the crowd when he told them, "To put some of yalls' fears to rest, the Cinque Bambini case had nothing to do with parts of those subdivisions built on high ground."

He later stated that he was confident 95 or 99 percent of those subdivisions does not fall into the public trust tideland category.

Chairman Hugh Keating reminded the audience that anything said by a commission member, unless passed by a majority vote of the commission, is just that commissioner's personal opinion.

A 1986 Supreme Court ruling, in the Cinque Bambini case, upheld the state's claim to all lands below the mean high tide mark.

All lands below the mean high tide mark were granted to Mississippi, when it became a state in 1817, to be held in public trust, much in the same way as 16th section school lands.

The mean high tide mark is ascertained by plotting the reach of the high tide over an 18.6 year period.

The purpose of the commission, established earlier this year, is to make a recommendation to Secretary of State Dick Molpus on what the state's policy should be governing those lands.

The question of where the states 1817 tide line was must be answered to the best of the commission's ability before a definitive policy can be

US Post Office lets contract for restoration of Raynaud mural

BY DENA BISNETTE

The U.S. Postal Service has contracted with a New Orleans art conservator for the restoration of a Depression-era mural currently glued to the wall of the old Bay St. Louis post office building.

The mural, painted under the Works Progress Administration by the late Gulf Coast artist Louis Raynaud in 1938, depicts a fishing scene. The painting will be restored by Phyllis Hudson, one of several bidders for the contract, according to Ila Ree Odom of the postal service's regional office in Memphis, Tenn.

Odom could not release the exact amount of the contract, but said the project is expected to cost more than $5,000 and that the postal service plans to pay for the work.

Nancy Gex, a Waveland resident who originally began a donation drive to pay for the mural's removal and restoration, said she is returning the donated funds.

"I'm glad this project has a happy ending. I'm just delighted they're doing this," she said.

She had conferred with Hudson and other people in the art conservation field regarding whether the painting could be moved when she heard that the old post office building was going to be sold.

"I'm so glad the postal department has selected her because she is certainly very qualified," Gex said.

Hudson explained that the removal of the mural will begin in the next few weeks.

First, she must determine the type of adhesive that was used to glue the eight-foot-long, four-foot-high painting to the wall.

She said that adhesive would have to be broken down to allow the painting to be removed slowly, "inch by fraction of an inch."

In addition, the front of the mural will have to be coated with a special adhesive and a non-acid tissue to protect the paint and keep it from breaking off the mural's surface.

The restoration will be done at Hudson's New Orleans studio, then Raynaud's work will be returned to Bay St. Louis.

"It will be put on a stretcher and framed so it can be treated as a painting rather than a mural," Hudson said.

Bay St. Louis Postmaster Tom Hill said he has not received any official notification regarding the mural, but he has a spot for the painting to hang in the new post office on US-90.

Hill said the spot he has chosen is inside the section of the post office that is closed each night, near the door to his own office.

Glass doors separating that section of the building from the section with the post office boxes and vending machines, which is always open, will allow the public to view the painting after hours but will protect it from possible vandalism.

Weir death remains under investigation

BY DENA BISNETTE

An investigation is continuing into the death of Ricky D. Weir, 35, of Shoreline Park.

Hancock County Medical Examiner Harold Stiglet said autopsy results are not yet available, but the cause of death has been determined as being multiple injuries resulting from being run over by an automobile.

He said the death was definitely accidental.

Weir was lying on the Highway 43 bridge over Orphan Creek at about 9 a.m. Saturday when he was run over by a vehicle driven by a Bay St. Louis man.

Stiglet pronounced Weir dead at the scene at about 3:55 a.m. Saturday.

Investigators are still trying to determine whether alcohol was involved in the fatality on Weir's part. Stiglet also stated that it has been determined that Weir was alive when he was hit by the car.

The accident is being investigated by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Motor club designates a 'strict enforcement area'

For the next 12 months, Triple-A employees in over a thousand offices will be advising AAA members—now approaching 30 million motorists—to be careful when they drive in Mississippi.

For the first time since 1976, the American Automobile Association has designated an entire state—Mississippi—as a Strict Traffic Enforcement Area.

"The designation is by no means critical," said AAA Mississippi general manager Don Littlefield. "We're just telling our members to watch out and be careful."

"As a matter of fact," Littlefield said, "the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol should be commended for its efforts in concentrating high levels of enforcement in different areas of our state at different times. Mississippi has had one of the nation's highest traffic fatality rates, and this is helping to bring that rate down."

The last time that AAA named an entire state as a Strict Traffic Enforcement Area was almost 13 years ago when two states, Virginia and New Mexico, were cited. Since that time the association has given the designation only to specific cities or certain general areas.

"But our policy of rigid enforcement all over the state at different times makes us a little different," Littlefield said. "And it seems to be working to save lives."

For the next 12 months, AAA Travel Counselors throughout North America will be marking the Mississippi portion of maps distributed to members with the designation 'Strict Enforcement Area.' After 12 months, developed.

Speaking for the commission's boundary committee, Roger Wilder informed the group that the committee had asked the technical staff to find aerial maps of the coast made in the 1940's and 50's, and to get plats of all the subdivisions along the coast that possibly required filling.

By using the maps and plats the committee hopes to be able to draw a line around areas which will not be affected.

"We want to lay to rest the fears of as many people as possible," Wilder said.

Wilder added that just because someone's property lies below that line, when it is drawn, doesn't mean it is tideland.

"Just because you have wet land doesn't mean it is subject to the public trust," he said.

Two policy positions adopted by the commission are:
—Ownership of land that becomes subject to the ebb and flow of tide by gradual, natural forces will go to the state. Land eroded during hurricanes is exempted from this position because it is not a gradual process.

—Conversely, any accumulation of land by natural forces will become the property of the upland owner.

—An upland owner will retain ownership of non-tidal land even though it becomes subject to the ebb and flow due to dredging or filling.

The crowd voiced its frustration as the commission stated again and again that it didn't have answers to specific questions.

Chairman Hugh Keating reiterated several times that the commission did not cause the tideland problem, is not going to make the tideland policy; they are merely a group of citizens who have been asked to arrive at a recommendation for the Secretary of State.

"When we make our recommendation to the Secretary of State he may accept some, all or none of what we say," Keating said.

Ray Veccio, a commission member and state representative from Pascagoula, assured the audience that many of the commission members own property in question.

"This commission is going to be fair. We'll try to make a recommendation as fair to everyone as possible.

We will do everything within legal means to see that a speedy answer gets to you," Veccio said.

Keating said he thought the meeting had been especially productive and that some good guidelines had been established.

The next meeting of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Trust Tidelands will be Wednesday, September 14 in Pascagoula.

Election...

The county could delay the election considerably past November while school board districts are determined and pre-cleared, or could seek clearance for the use of supervisors' districts in the November election through a letter to the Justice Department from the attorney for the board of supervisors.

Gex said he prefers the second solution because the next redistricting must be based on the 1990 census.

Whatever is actually done will be left to the discretion of the board of supervisors, he added.

Home Remodeling on Upswing

Question: Help! When my wife and I bought our home, there was enough space. Now, three kids later, we are running out of room. We cannot afford to buy with current prices and interest rates what they are. Any suggestions? K. G. Jackson
Answer: Dear K.G.:

Many people are responding to the high cost of buying a new home by fixing up the one they already own. The National Association of Home Builders reports that American homeowners spent in excess of $47 billion in 1981 on home improvements.

Apparently, you and your family are not the only ones short on space in that the most common improvements were installation of new bathrooms and remodeling and constructing garages.

In the case where garages are being remodeled, the most often cited reason was for additional living space.

For families needing more space or better facilities, the remodeling option holds several advantages. The existing mortgage loan may be retained, thereby avoiding new and expensive financing. Moving costs are saved and, even if your move is only across town, the total cost of such a move can be steep.

Much of the work involved in remodeling can be done by the homeowner and home improvement stores are abundant to help in this task.

In addition, you should be able to find a contractor who will agree to do whatever part of the work you either cannot do or choose not to do.

The money to finance small home improvement jobs generally comes from personal savings.

A children's fishing rodeo is scheduled for Saturday at the Garfield Ladner Memorial Fishing Pier.

Registration begins at 5:30 a.m. at the Waveland pier and is free for the youngsters and ends at 5:30 p.m.

Scales will open at 11 a.m. and will close at 5:30 p.m. An awards presentation will follow.

In addition to the children's fishing rodeo, at 10 a.m. Saturday there will be a ribbon cutting and the official dedication of the new pier, which is part of Waveland's 1988 Centennial celebration.

Entertainment is to be provided throughout the day by William Marshall.

The Bay-Waveland Jaycees, sponsors of the event, have recently been reorganized and we are hoping there will be a large participation by young fishermen.

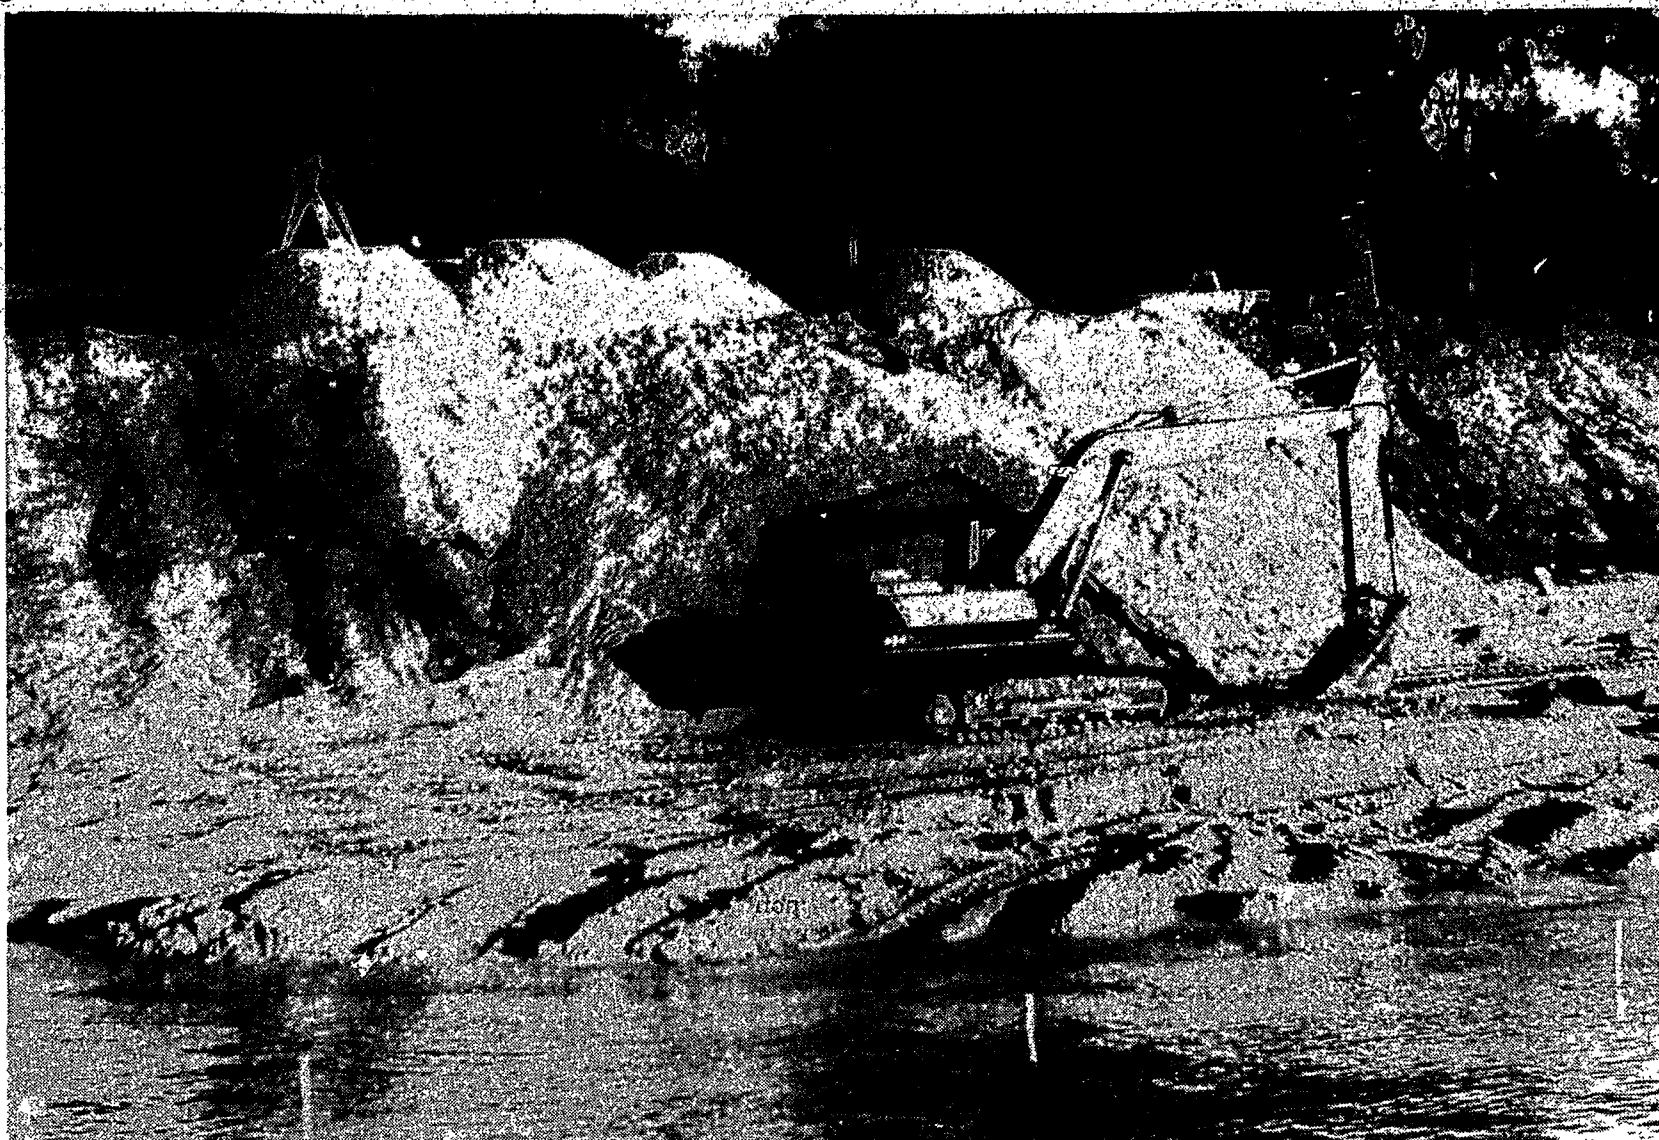

We hope to see you at the fishing rodeo and pier dedication.

Today, Thursday, the University of Southern Mississippi's Eagle Express caravan will be at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce at 4 p.m.

The reason for the caravan's visit is to promote USM's 1988 football season and new coaching staff in addition to offering special prices on season tickets for the Golden Eagles.

We know there are a lot of USM fans in the area, and it is hoped they will show their support by attending today's event.

By the way, there will be a registration for one season ticket at the rally at the chamber's office. You could be the lucky winner.

RECREATION CONSTRUCTION CONTINUES—The construction of the sand beach expansion at Ulman Avenue from a grant from the Bureau of Marine Resources with matching funds from Bay St. Louis and Hancock County is well underway. A trackhoe is dwarfed by part of the 3,000 plus yards of sand used to complete the project. Victor Frankiewicz, Bay St. Louis mayor, said the project, which is managed by city forces, should be completed by Sept. 30. Bids are to be received today for pier entrance renovations. The man-made sand beach will be buffeted by the planting of marsh grasses which are partly experimental for the stabilization of the area, Frankiewicz stated. Sand and fill for the project is being purchased from contractors. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Voters will decide Nov. 8 whether they want the unit system of road administration in their counties under a compromise county government reform bill that sailed past both chambers of the Legislature Tuesday. The bill passed the House 111-7, shortly before clearing the Senate 50-0.

Passage of the bill ended a week-long $179,095 special legislative session called by Gov. Ray Mabus to push the unit system, one of his top priorities. While the unit system bill passed by the Legislature falls short of the strict statewide unit system that Mabus first called for, he described the measure Tuesday as a victory for the people of Mississippi.

"This is the first time the government of the state of Mississippi is on record for honest and efficient government," Mabus said shortly after the bill cleared the Senate, its final legislative hurdle. Mabus signed the bill into law at about 5:15 p.m. Tuesday.

The real impact of the unit system bill will not be clear until Nov. 8, when voters decide county by county whether they want the unit system's controversial centralized road maintenance features. The governor declined to speculate on the number of counties that will decide to adopt the full unit system. About 22 counties now have some form of the unit system.

Counties who do not approve the Nov. 8 referendum will be able to keep the traditional beat system of road maintenance or a modified unit system.

All 82 counties, however, will be required to set up centralized purchasing, inventory control and receiving systems.

Counties voting yes on the referendum will also be required to appoint a county administrator and a road manager, centralize road management and set up a countywide personnel system that may include such things as uniform vacation policies and hiring and firing guidelines.

Under the beat system, supervisors oversee road maintenance in their districts. Under the unit system, supervisors are primarily concerned with setting policy for the county while day-to-day road maintenance is handled by hired administrators on a countywide instead of on a district-by-district basis.

Mabus and other proponents of the unit system say the reform will save counties money, improve services and curb the sort of corruption targeted by Operation Pretense, the federal probe that has resulted in the arrests of more than 50 supervisors. Critics argue that the unit system will entail high start up costs and is not a suitable form of government for all counties.

Along with setting up unit system guidelines, the bill contains a home rule provision authorizing counties to adopt ordinances on things not addressed by state law with some exceptions. The bill also revamps state purchasing laws that have caused headaches for many county officials. One key provision in the new law will allow local officials to make purchases of $500 or less from local vendors without regard to the state contract price as long as the price paid is the going rate and not excessive.

Along with the unit system bill, Mabus approved a 20 percent raise for county supervisors. He vetoed a similar bill late in the regular 1988 legislative session after negotiations on the unit system bill collapsed. While the unit system bill sparked little debate in the House Tuesday, several Senators pushed to send it back to a conference committee for further work, citing a range of concerns including removal of a set-aside provision aimed at helping minority-owned firms get county business and certain purchasing law provisions. The motion to recommit failed in an 18-34 vote.

HOUSE

House Bill #4. Conference Report. Passed 111-7. The compromise county unit system bill hammered out by a Senate and House negotiating team. Compretta, yes.

SENATE

House Bill #4. Conference Report. The Senate passed 50-0 the conference report with Senators Blanton and Rayborn pairing. A pair is a parliamentary maneuver that allows a lawmaker to go on record supporting or opposing a bill but his vote does not count. Blanton was for the bill and Rayborn against.

Motion to recommit the Conference Report House Bill #4. Failed 18-34. Motion to send the House Bill Conference Report back for further work to a negotiating committee. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

Unit System essential for state economic development

One of the most dramatic actions in the nation this year to improve government took place right in the Mississippi State Capitol last week.

The unit system of county government—a system of government that is more efficient, responsive and corruption-resistant—became a matter of state policy.

By overwhelming majorities, the Mississippi House and Senate approved a unit system bill, and I signed it.

It is a historic bill for a number of reasons. First, it is the first major revision of county government in more than a century.

Secondly, the unit system bill—beginning Jan. 2, 1989—will require checks and balances to help prevent the kind of corruption that has driven scores of our county officials from office in scandal.

Last but not least, the unit system will save taxpayers as much as $30 million a year according to estimates.

Unless voters choose to exempt their county in a Nov. 8 referendum, the unit system is the law of the land in Mississippi.

Many opponents said it could not be done. They said there was not enough public support for the unit system, and that its benefits were unproven.

I believe the Legislature's votes clearly put that option to rest. The House of Representatives approved the unit system bill by a 111-7 vote while the Senate gave it a 50-0 vote of approval.

In praising passage of the bill, the Mississippi Association of Supervisors said it will not get involved to take a position in the Nov. 8 referendum, but instead let the voters in each county make up their minds.

I would encourage the Boards of Supervisors in Mississippi counties not currently under the unit system to endorse the policy set forth by the Legislature and leave the unit system established by the bill in place.

In addition to all the good reasons for county government reform I have already outlined, I must mention one more: The unit system is essential to the economic development of our state.

BIPEC, a Mississippi business group, recently surveyed nearly 400 corporate executives of Mississippi companies. The survey showed that the third most negative factor affecting our state's business climate was county government.

Therefore, passage of the unit system bill was one of the strongest measures we could take to improve our state's business climate and bring more jobs to Mississippi.

Business, just like individual citizens, wants to know that their tax dollars are being spent wisely and efficiently.

Mississippi has moved forward in so many ways this year, and the unit system of government helps ensure that we continue down the road of progress to the benefit of all Mississippians.

Remember, a yes vote in November is a vote for a strong and efficient county government.

County government reforms as effective as local leaders

When the county government reform bill passed in the legislative special session last week, Gov. Ray Mabus called it a big victory for the people of Mississippi. So did the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

How could both Mabus and the county supervisors who have been arrayed on opposite sides of a bitter struggle over the historic issue of requiring unitization of county road management claim victory?

The way the bill turned out, maybe they could. There's something, it seems, for everybody in what Mabus optimistically views as a 'historic' piece of legislation to reform antiquated county government.

It's going to be reform by local option. Whether or not counties will continue to operate five separate road departments has been shunted from the floor of the Legislature to the voters in each county to decide.

Mabus wanted to get rid of the supervisors' beat system, the traditional five individual fiefdoms which have been a haven for waste and corruption for many years. But he has been forced to abandon his goal of making the unit system uniform statewide.

The confident supervisors were willing to have a county-by-county referendum on the unit system vs. the beat system all along.

They believe that only the city folks will vote for county unit but the rural folks will vote against it, and that you would wind up with about what you have now—20 counties with the unit system and 62 counties with the good ole boy system.

"It (the county option bill) was a gutless, spineless way to deal with this issue," said former State Rep. Jim Price, of Quitman, who had spearheaded a move to mandate the unit system in every county eight years ago.

Price had succeeded in getting a provision into the law in 1981 requiring counties to have the unit system unless the county board of supervisors voted itself out from under the system.

In effect, then, we already have a form of county option on unitized road management. But only about a fourth of the counties have remained under the unit system. Several counties such as Walthall and Amite which experimented with county unit abandoned it several months ago, claiming it was too costly.

The most redeeming feature of the county government reform bill passed last week, many are saying, is that it mandated that a central purchasing system be installed in every

Animals the losers in shelter controversy

Dear Editor,

I have been reading all the articles on the animal shelter. It really saddens me to see all this controversy between these two organizations. They should be working with each other and not against each other. The ones really hurting by all this will be the animals.

I tried to get involved with the animal shelter seven years ago, but all my attempts were heard by deaf ears. I was against the shelter being built within the city when they first proposed having it in Waveland in 1980.

Whoever planned the building did not take into consideration the rate of growth of the area. In my opinion the shelter should have been built in a rural area with a lot of land for potential growth. I also think it's time Hancock County and Bay St. Louis go out and on their own in getting shelters of their own started and show Waveland how a real animal shelter should be run.

county, whether or not it votes to come under the countywide road management system.

Fine. But it must be pointed out that a 1974 county reform bill passed by the Legislature also "mandated" a central purchasing system be installed in every county and that all buying come through a purchase clerk.

Supervisors, as the FBI's Operation Pretense plainly illustrated, soon found loopholes in the 1974 central purchasing law through which you could drive a bulldozer.

There was nothing to prevent a supervisor from circumventing the purchase clerk, go directly to a local vendor and concoct a signed invoice for goods that would never be delivered—the so-called 'busted invoice.' When it was subsequently paid by the county, the proceeds would be divided on a pre-arranged basis.

Pretense showed that most county clerks, hired by the supervisors, had either been afraid to question invoices brought to them by a supervisor after the fact, or felt they did not have sufficient authority to reject such invoices.

Hopefully, the new bill, which sets out in great detail the functions of the purchase clerk and also provides for a receiving clerk will close the loopholes in the existing system.

Pardon this writer for being skeptical of legislative attempts to effectively put spending restraints on the free-wheeling supervisors. In 1962, after I had documented in news stories how the kickback system worked in purchasing road equipment, the Legislature enacted anti-kickback laws. They proved to be a joke.

Then again after this writer in the early 1970s disclosed the system of padding metal culvert prices to cover built-in kickbacks, the central purchasing laws were enacted. Obviously, Pretense showed that didn't work either.

Any county government reform, even the county unit system where it is established, is only going to be as good as the people who run that system and the regulations that come down from the State Auditor.

Food Pantry assists 5,900

Approximately 5,900 needy persons have been assisted by the Hancock County Food Pantry according to spokesperson Evelyn Johnson. "The people of Hancock County have truly come through with love and compassion for the less fortunate," she said. The pantry is stocked by donations and run by volunteers.

Families using the pantry must be referred with a signed slip from the Welfare Department, Health Department, a doctor or minister. A 'minister of the month' is appointed by the Hancock County Emergency Relief committee for advice on specific cases.

Bookkeeping files are cross-referenced so that any part of the pantry operation is readily available. Anne Edwards is bookkeeper and Wilma McMahon is responsible for monetary donations and for purchase of food that is not donated. Helene

Vernon is in charge of the 60 volunteers.

Johnson, along with Teen DeRocha and Ina Piazza also thank persons for donating used children's books to local bookstore "Bookends" on Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis. Coloring books were donated by the Mississippi Highway Department, and the group encourages the donation of crayons. Other items needed by the group are inexpensive canopeners.

Crowbar incident lands Bay man in jail

A Bay St. Louis man is being held in the Hancock County jail on a $10,000 bond after allegedly assaulting another man with a crowbar.

Guy L. Tarr, 22, of 203 Julia Street was arrested at his home about 7 a.m. Sunday and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. According to Sheriff's Investigator Glenn Strong, he is accused of hitting Dwight Hendricks, the guard at Spiers Auto Salvage, over the head with the crowbar at about 2 a.m. the same day.

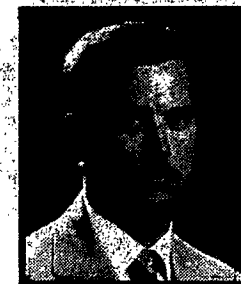

Hendricks was treated and released at Hancock Medical Center.

Q. How did the term "National Guard" first get used as a title for the U.S. militia?
A. The 2nd Battalion, 11th New York Artillery adopted the title "National Guard" in honor of Lafayette's celebrated Garde Nationale de Paris. The name was adopted during Lafayette's visit to the U.S. in 1824-25.

County Forester

Forestry Commission offers timber sale assistance

Timber sale assistance to non-industrial private landowners by the Mississippi Forestry Commission is efficient use of tax dollars, and landowners who sell timber with the assistance of a professional forester—no matter if it's a public agency forester or a consultant forester—make more money, and leave their land in better condition than landowners who don't. That's the result of a study just released by the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

The study compared pairs of similar sales in 20 counties scattered across the state. The sales differed in that one in each county was made by the landowner himself, and the other was made with the assistance of a professional forester.

Interviews with landowners involved reveal some interesting, but not surprising, facts:—All 20 unassisted sales were clearcuts, as compared to only two of those sold with assistance.

—Nine of the landowners who sold timber by themselves accepted the first price offered by the buyer, whereas only four who sold with assistance took the first offer, most of them (15) sold their timber to the highest bidder.

—Only eight of the 20 landowners who sold the timber by themselves stated that they were highly satisfied with the results, seven said that they were moderately satisfied, and five rated their satisfaction as low.

This differs dramatically with the satisfaction level of those who sought professional help. Seventeen of them were highly satisfied; only three rated their level of satisfaction less than high.

The reports point out that although landowners who sold without assistance often got more total dollars, all of them sold all their timber—and left nothing for the future. Those who sold with assistance got more per unit of measure (cords or board feet) and they only sold part of their trees, thus insuring that they can make additional timber sales in the future.

That's good news, for the U.S. Forest Service predicts that timber prices will increase higher than the rate of inflation for at least the next 15 years. That, coupled with the fact that the timber will be growing all the time means continuing profits for the wise landowner.

Don't make selling timber a gamble; make it a sure thing. Look at the odds: If you seek the help of a professional forester when you sell your timber, the chances are 17 out of 20 that you'll be highly satisfied with the results. If you go it alone, the odds are only eight out of 20.

If you're thinking about selling timber, or need any other assistance in managing your timberland, call me at 467-4728, 8 a.m. until noon, and I'll be glad to help you.

Coyotes deserve man's attention

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Growing watermelons this summer? Watch out for the coyotes! Calving season? Watch out for the coyotes! Letting the cat out overnight? Watch out for the coyotes!

Seems that no matter what a person grows or raises, if it can be eaten, a coyote will be around to eat it.

As coyote populations began to rise in Mississippi, biologists wanted to know what impact the increase would have on wildlife and domestic livestock.

As a result, a study of coyotes was initiated in 1981 by Edward Hill, assistant leader of the Mississippi Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit at Mississippi State University.

One such impact researchers have discovered is that through either competition or direct aggression, coyotes displace red foxes when they enter a region.

Coyotes are often mistaken for gray foxes because of their coloring, but they can be any shade from fawn to black. They are actually bigger than foxes, and smaller than wolves, ranging from 23 to 40 pounds.

Additional research has shown that fawns comprise 60 to 80 percent of the predators' summer food supply, depending on location and density of deer herds. These are obviously significant numbers, and it is unknown what the long-term or final impacts will be. In places of deer overpopulation, the coyotes may be beneficial.

The peak of fawning season is in August, too early for coyote puppies to be hunting, but adult coyotes are big enough that several together can bring down deer, especially small fawns.

Although coyotes are not pack hunters like wolves, they may hunt in pairs or threes if it proves effective. "They are comparatively big, fast and efficient killing machines," Hill said.

Hill refers to the coyote as an "opportunistic animal" in its feeding habits. Depending on the season, the diet may include wild plums, dewberries, blackberries, persimmons, melons, insects, poultry, wildlife, calves, goats and sheep. Coyotes have been known to attack dogs and to collectively feed on house pets.

To add insult to injury, not only will the coyote take advantage of a landowner's commodities for its supper, it will settle in and thrive. A coyote den can be anything from a pile of brush to a hole in the ground.

Eradication seems impossible; coyotes manage to mysteriously remain just one step ahead of the hunter. Many consider the coyote a pest; others oppose any form of control; still others just don't know.

under no protection, and it has been trapped, gassed, poisoned and shot, with little apparent effect on the population.

However, nature has methods of population control that even the coyote cannot evade.

Sarcoptic mange is common in the species, and 40 percent of the coyotes have heartworms. "Although, it doesn't seem to hinder them," Hill said.

There have been no recent reported cases of rabid coyotes in Mississippi. Nationally, raccoons, bats and skunks are still the predominant carriers of this disease.

Coyotes have been seen throughout Mississippi's rural areas, forests and pastures. To show how close to "civilization" they can be found, Hill said there have been coyote tracks within 100 yards of the Scales Building on MSU's South Farm.

Laundering of pillows outlined

Pillow Care

Basic pillow care is simple. Fluff daily and air frequently to help pillows retain their resiliency and buoyancy. To fluff, push the corners toward the center so the crown stays high.

Down and feather pillows can be freshened occasionally by placing them in the dryer for 10 minutes on low heat. This will remove the humidity and keep the pillows resilient.

Most pillows manufactured today may be machine washed with warm water on a short cycle and gentle setting. To balance the load wash to pillows at a time or a single pillow with several heavy bath towels. Be sure to read the label for specific instructions. Adding a removable zippered cover to the pillow provides protection from stains. Usually these covers are a 50/50 blend of polyester and cotton.

Laundering Tips

Down and feather pillows. Make sure the pillow has no ripped seams and that its ticking is in good condition. Loose feathers can create problems in a washer and dryer. Replace worn ticking. If ticking is in good condition open stitching in opposite corners an inch or two.

Pin openings with a heavy safety pin. These slits provide outlets for air and help keep pillows from becoming too buoyant. This step is not necessary if the pillow has an eyelet ventilator.

Fill washer with warm water, add detergent and agitate until detergent dissolves. Push pillows under water until thoroughly wet, agitate for 10 minutes. Complete rising cycles and give an extra rinse. Stitch the openings close before drying. Tumble dry for an hour at warmest setting. Reduce heat and dry completely. Thorough drying is important. Feathers and down can mat, mildew and develop odors.

Polyester fiberfill pillows. Instructions for special care may be included on some hang tags. Polyester filled pillows usually stay fluffier if washed by hand or in a front loading washer without an agitator which can disrupt the batting. (Front loading washers are available in most laundromats). Dry in a tumble dryer on a low temperature setting or air dry.

Foam pillows. Washing is not recommended for foam filled pillows. They are difficult to handle, become water logged and may ignite if dried in a dryer.

Depending on the use and care, the average pillow life is 10 years. Worn out pillows should be discarded. Select good quality pillows, they will cost more initially but if given proper care they will last longer than less expensive, poor quality pillows.

Male food shoppers target of heart healthy food tips

Here's food for thought: An increasing number of men are becoming major supermarket customers. The male shopper—married or single—is one out of every 2.5 people in the check-out line.

The most recent statistics show that 40 percent of all supermarket shoppers are male," said Ruth Ann Broome, R.D., of the American Heart Association, Mississippi Affiliate nutrition committee.

"This represents an increase of 10 percent over the past decade and a growing market segment for those who sell products and for those of us who believe that the supermarket can be the front line in the fight against heart disease. The AHA is interested in the male food shopper for several reasons including that many of his food shopping habits are in the formative stages," Broome added.

"If we can give him good information on nutrition, he can be part of a heart-smart revolution in the supermarket."

Currently, most men who shop rely on habit and example, rather than what they've learned. Studies by Lieberman Research, Inc. (commissioned by Campbell Soup Company and People Magazine) found that most men do not read nutrition labels and they tend to be brand-loyal, buying what they bought when they were single, or buy what their mothers bought, rather than doing comparative shopping.

During an average four-week period, 77 percent of all American men do major food shopping and 83 percent to fill-in shopping during that same time. The AHA believes that men should become more informed on nutrition and heart health.

During its Food Festival, Sept. 11-17, the AHA is offering tips on heart-healthy shopping.

"The message will focus on all the positive aspects of heart-healthy eating, and the fact that making diet changes doesn't mean giving up good taste for good health," Broome noted.

To begin a program of low-saturated fat, low-cholesterol eating, the AHA recommends making gradual changes in eating habits, and then, as those changes become a way of life, move to the next challenge on the heart-healthy eating list. Over a period of a few weeks, heart-healthy eating will become an important part of a personal health maintenance plan.

The following are a few nutrition checkpoints offered by the AHA for all food shoppers:

—Buy lean cuts of meat and trim off any visible fat before cooking, and remove the skin from poultry before cooking.

—Add fish to your diet.

—Substitute skim milk, low-fat cheeses and low-fat yogurt for their high-fat counterparts.

—Add new flavor to your vegetables with herbs and seasonings instead of butter and sauces.

—Try fruits and unfrosted cookies and cakes in place of gooey high-fat desserts.

—Remember that pasta, rice, bread and cereal are low in fat and rich in nutrients. Enjoy them!

—Watch out for hidden sources of fat such as frostings and sauces.

—Try to limit even monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats to reduce overall fat intake.

—Limit yourself to no more than three egg yolks a week.

—Try substituting two egg whites for one whole egg in baked good recipes.

—Bake, steam, roast, boil or broil foods instead of frying them.

—Eat a meatless meal about once a week.

For male shoppers and female shoppers alike, there's no single path to a lower cholesterol diet. The truth is, there are as many ways to go about it as there are people.

Pumpkin-Pecan Bread

September is the time for American Heart's Food Festival. And this heart-healthy, flavorful bread makes an especially good snack for kids of all ages.

3 1/2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup sugar
1 cup oil

8 egg whites (or egg substitute equivalent to 4 eggs)
2/3 cup water
2 cups canned pumpkin
1 cup chopped pecans

Sift together the flour, soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add sugar and stir to mix thoroughly.

Make a well in the center of the dry ingredients and add all at once the oil, eggs, water and pumpkin. Mix well and add the nuts. Pour batter into four 8 x 4-inch loaf pans, filling each 1/2 full. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour, or until a wooden toothpick inserted in the center of the loaf comes out clean.

Yield: 4 loaves (16 slices each)

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Whenever I boil or steam potatoes, I usually cook a few extra, or even several extra ones, for with cold potatoes in the refrigerator, I have the basics for a "planned-over" meal, or for a meal for friends who stop by on their way to or from somewhere else and stay for an impromptu lunch or supper.

Sometimes I saute the sliced potatoes in butter or oil, along with snippets of green onions and bell (green) pepper. At other times I make potato salad—either the traditional American version, with mayonnaise and seasonings, or the German version, with hot bacon dressing poured over—or the French countryside version (my all-time favorite) with olive oil and white wine and vinegar dressing coating the potatoes.

But, one of my special uses for leftover cold boiled potatoes is "Omelette Premiere" or "Farmer's Omelet" so popular throughout the countryside of France. It's often called "Farmer's Breakfast" also, but is equally good for lunch or supper with a minimum of fussing about the kitchen.

And it's a tasty answer to the "What's For Supper?—I'm Famished" cry after a day spent sailing or on the beach or golf course. So, here's:

Omelette Premiere

4 cooked, cold potatoes, sliced
2 medium onions, sliced
4 Tblsp. oil or butter
6 to 8 eggs, beaten just until uniformly yellow
Pepper, salt

Incidentally, I always cook the potatoes in their skins, then peel, as I think that they taste better, and besides, this saves the vitamins and minerals, although, if I'm cooking this just for myself, I leave the skin on.

At any rate, slice the cold potatoes rather thin, also the onions. Use just enough of the oil or butter to film the skillet, and let it get hot, hot. Add the potatoes in a single layer, pepper them well, salt if you wish, and turn the fire low, low, so that the potatoes will sort of crust on the bottom, without burning. Top with the sliced onions, and any potato slices left over. When they brown, turn over to brown on the other side.

Loosen any potato or onion sticking to the skillet, using a spatula, and add a little more oil or butter. When it starts to sizzle, pour the eggs over the potato-onion mixture.

Cook over rather high heat, lifting the edges so that the runny part slips under the whole, and shaking the skillet about a bit so that all cooks uniformly and to a somewhat moist degree of "doneness." (This omelet is not folded, but cut into wedges to serve. This makes four servings.)

Often add crumbled bacon or slices of sausage or chunks or bits of ham to this hearty omelet. And, sometimes I chop the onions instead of slicing them.

This omelet, hearty type that it is, breaks the usual cookery rule that you should never make an omelet with more than three or four eggs, that it's better to make two omelets for more servings—but, rules are made to be broken, aren't they—at times, that is?

Red Cross recruits donors to avoid holiday shortage

In an effort to avoid a blood shortage similar to the one several weeks ago, the American Red Cross is urging donors to roll up their sleeves and give blood before or immediately after the Labor Day weekend.

"Holiday activities often lead to accidents that will require blood," said Sarah Erickson, director of donor recruitment for the Gulf Coast Region Blood Services. "We must have the blood available to meet emergency needs," she continued.

The Red Cross is particularly concerned with maintaining an adequate supply of platelets over the holiday weekend. Platelets are the blood component used to treat patients undergoing chemotherapy, suffering from leukemia, aplastic anemia and other blood disorders. Unlike other components of the blood which are usable for up to 42 days, platelets have a lifespan of only five days.

"By asking donors to give blood both before and after the holiday, we hope to avoid any critical shortages," Erickson said.

Earlier this month, the Red Cross was forced to issue an emergency appeal for blood donors when supplies dropped to dangerously low levels.

Donors in the Biloxi-Gulfport area can give blood at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter located at Fernwood and Debays on Monday, Aug. 29 from noon to 6 p.m. or Friday, Sept. 2 and 9 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Donors may also give Wednesday, Aug. 31 at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport from 2 to 5 p.m. and Tuesday, Sept. 6 on the Europa Star Cruise Ship in Biloxi from 1 to 7 p.m. For information, call the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chapter at 1-896-4511.

Patrol to announce 'Operation Saturation' future locations

More than 1,100 drivers are acutely aware of the Mississippi Highway Patrol's 'Operation Saturation' since receiving citations Friday and Saturday in the Brookhaven and Batesville districts.

"Operation Saturation was developed to remove drunken and drugged drivers from the highways, and it's working," said Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol.

Ninety-nine of the 1,103 citations were issued to drivers charged with driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol (DUI), Hughes said.

A breakdown of citations issued in the Batesville District include: 59 for DUI, 14 on charges of public drunk, 14 drug arrests (two on felony charges), 34 for driving with a suspended license and 431 for other violations.

Brookhaven District statistics include: 40 DUI arrests, four public drunk charges, seven misdemeanor drug arrests, 43 driving with a suspended license and 457 others.

"In addition to the 99 drivers charged with DUI in Batesville and Brookhaven, 148 DUI charges were levied against drivers during Operation Saturation weekends in the Tupelo, Meridian, Hattiesburg and Greenville areas earlier this month.

Troopers 'saturated' those areas for two days each and cited 3,572 drivers for various violations, from drug possession to driving with a suspended license.

The Highway patrol is implementing Operation Saturation in an effort to lower the death rate on state and federal highways. The project will include driver's license checkpoints set up by troopers to locate drivers under the influence of drugs or alcohol, drivers whose licenses are expired or suspended, and those whose inspection stickers or license plates are out of date.

The next locations for Operation Saturation will be announced, Hughes said.

Weather good for thrips, tomato wilt virus spreads

By S. Ryan Thompson
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

MISSISSIPPI STATE—Weather conditions that are favorable to the survival of a disease-spreading insect may cause Tomato Spotted Wilt Virus to become a problem throughout the state this year, according to specialists with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The virus is spread by thrips, insects which feed on TSW-infected weeds and then spread the disease to tomato plants.

Home tomato producers were plagued by this virus in 1986, and specialists fear another year of widespread Tomato Spotted Wilt.

"We don't know this year how much of a problem we're going to have, but we're seeing specimens in several Delta counties," said Dr. Frank Killebrew, extension plant pathologist.

The virus has been documented in Washington, Warren, Yazoo, Sharkey, Oktibbeha and Copiah counties.

"There is no cure per se for the virus," said Dr. James Jarratt, extension entomologist.

To reduce the movement of TSW virus-bearing thrips, the specialists recommend keeping weeds down in areas where tomatoes are grown. Thrips should also be controlled with insecticides such as Malathion 50 percent of Cygon 2-E.

Another possible method for thrip control is using shiny mulches, such as silver garbage bags. Research has indicated that the light reflection may interfere with the normal insect flight pattern and the thrips' ability to locate a cultivated host.

"We encourage homeowners to bring specimens to their extension office for positive identification of the virus," Killebrew said. Infected plants should be removed and destroyed.

Symptoms of Tomato Spotted Wilt include thickening of veins on young foliage, causing leaves to turn inward and downward, blight and blackening of young shoots; black streaks on leaf stems; small, dark, circular dead spots on leaves and withered leaves.

The fruit of infected plants is edible if damaged parts are cut away, Killebrew said. However, it may have an off-flavor or irregular yellow blotches and is usually smaller than the fruit of healthy plants.

Jarratt said that weather conditions are very favorable to thrip movement and survival. Rain helps control thrips as does cold weather—both of which have been scarce in Mississippi this year.

One effect of the drought is that the weed hosts on which thrips feed are drying up, encouraging the thrips to seek more tender growth, such as tomato plants grown in irrigated gardens, Jarratt said.

For more information on Tomato Spotted Wilt or controlling thrips, contact the county Extension Office.

Stieffel wins Boh series at Bay-Waveland Yacht Club

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Lipton eliminations were completed last weekend in spite of the inclement weather.

Dennis Stieffel was the winner of the Boh Trophy as the first place finisher in the seven race series.

Joining Stieffel on the skipper list for the Lipton regatta are Peter Merrifield, Rod Stieffel and Bishop Stieffel, with alternates Ellen Eagan and Corky Hadden.

The race committee for the Boh series included Judy McKinney, Rear Admiral William Merlin, Dootsie Murphy and Chuck Breath.

McKinney and Harry Chapman will serve as judges at the Lipton regatta to be held in Pensacola on Labor Day weekend.

Merlin, commander of the U.S. Coast Guard's Eighth District, will serve as Bay-Waveland's team captain in the Lipton.

This Saturday and Sunday, the annual sunfish championship for the Rodinella Trophy will be held.

All BWYC members are invited to participate in the senior series on Saturday and those under 16 years of age will participate in the junior series on Sunday.

Bay Area Youth Soccer slates registration

Bay Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) will begin registration for the 1988-89 season Thursday, Sept. 1 at Waveland City Library on Coleman Avenue from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Registration will also be held at Christ Episcopal School in Virginia Hall on Tuesday, Sept. 6 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Registration will be conducted again on Thursday, Sept. 8 at North Bay Elementary Cafeteria from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and late registration will be Saturday, Sept. 10 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the Waveland Little League field.

Registration fee is $25 which includes cost of uniform, state and district soccer fees, a sports patch for playing in the 1988-89 season and referee fees.

All youths ages five through 19 are invited to participate. Registration fees cover both the fall and spring seasons.

By Mississippi Youth Soccer Association rules, each player gets to play at least 50 percent of each game, regardless of skill. Proof of age will be needed for all youths not previously registered with BAYS.

"Boys and girls are encouraged to come and register for America's fastest growing sport, soccer," said Richard Flowers, commissioner.

Thriffiley, McRaney brothers named to Millsaps '88 football squad

Forget the fact that there are only five returning players on offense and six on defense from last year. Forget the fact that there will only be three games at home this year while the rest will be played on the road. And forget the fact that there will be gaping holes on both lines and the defensive secondary that may have to be filled by green freshmen.

The Millsaps College football squad is led by head coach Harper Davis, a name synonymous with the words "winning season." After all, he's accomplished it 19 out of the past 20 seasons. This year should be no exception.

Davis, with a lifetime record of 137-73-3, enters his 25th year knowing that he can depend on returning starting quarterback Rusty Davis. The 6-0, 190-pound senior from Gadsden, Ala. completed 110 out of 207 passes last year for 1,280 yards, with 13 TD's and 11 interceptions.

"He performed really well for a kid just coming into our program," said Davis, "and we expect even bigger things out of him this year."

Joining Davis in the backfield will be fullback Jerry Leonard and halfback Todd Thriffiley. Leonard, a 6-2, 220-pound senior out of Slidell, La. ran 84 times for 430 yards and five touchdowns.

Thriffiley, a 5-7, 169-pound running back from Bay St. Louis, led the squad with 90 rushes for 446 yards. Backups to Thriffiley include Buddy Bass, Terrance Turner and Lynn Hancock, while fullback duties will be shored up by Flint Minshew.

Gone from the receiving corps is Darrin Estes, the squad's MVP from last year. The catching chores now fall into the hands of two capable seniors, Mike Brown and Chris Hemphill. Brown, a 5-10, 175-pound player from Carthage, caught 19 catches for 255 yards and three TD's last year. Hemphill, a 5-10, 175-pound receiver from Louisville, caught 10 catches for 145 yards.

Parke Pepper, a 6-1, 195-pound sophomore from Mt. Olive, saw limited action last year and has been put at wingback. Starting at tight end will be Mike Hester, a 6-1, 200-pound junior from Hattiesburg who in limited action last year caught ten passes.

The newly-faced offensive line will be anchored by center Mike Bennison, a 6-2, 201-pound sophomore from Dallas, Tex. Guards will be 6-0, 240-pound senior Wade Henderson of Ackerman, and 5-10, 220-pound sophomore Kenyatta Scott of Richland. One tackle will be Chris Webre, a 6-3, 235-pound sophomore from Metairie, La. The other tackle position will be shared by two freshmen, David Hannon, a 6-3, 240-pounder from Woods-ville and Joe Andrews, 6-4 and 205 pounds from Atlanta, Ga.

The defensive alignment will consist of a 4-4-3 unit. The defensive line will be led by ends Bert Amison, a 6-2, 190-pound junior from Semmes, Ala. and Chuck Clayton, a 6-4, 215-pound sophomore from Yazoo City. Amison last year collected 34 solo tackles, 15 assists and three sacks, while Clayton has 12 solos, 12 assists and five sacks. Also seeing action will be Joey Rogers, a 6-4, 190-pound freshman of Collins.

At tackle will be 6-1, 235-pound freshman Flint Minshew of Carthage, and 5-9, 250-pound senior Andy White of Loranger, La. White piled up 37 tackles last year with assists and one sack.

The group of four linebackers will be led by Tommy Leake, a 6-1, 210-pound senior of Orangeburg, S.C. and a freshman, Don

SSC Rocks prepare for 1988 season

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Varsity Football team has been hard at work the past three weeks preparing for what should be an exciting season. Head coach Ken Lyons, after steering his team to an impressive 6-4 record last season, welcomed back a squad of 53 ball-players for preseason workouts. Assisting Coach Lyons this year is Larry Ramsey, who will coach linebackers and defensive backs and will be the defensive coordinator. New to the staff is Andy Kivlan from Buras, La. who will work with the offensive and defensive lineman. Coach Kivlan has won Lyons' praise as a very knowledgeable coach, particularly in the area of techniques for his linemen. The Rocks' schedule will prove to be a challenging one. Next Friday at Rock-A-Chaw stadium the Rocks open with Pope John Paul, who defeated SSC 20-6 a year ago. Attitude on the team appears to be very good overall. Coach Lyons cited the senior leadership of Craig Sweeney, Gino Ascani, Jeff Battle, Justin Homes and Tracey Koller for special recognition. SSC should be strong and experienced in the passing game this year, with offensive guards Battle and Homes providing good interior protection against the pass rush. Another area where the Rocks should excel is in the defensive 'pressure' game, where the left side of the line should give opposing offenses a lot of trouble. Probable starters in the offensive backfield are Cedric Smith (QB), Vincent Bradley (FB), Gino Ascani (TB), Shannon Garrett (Slotback), Scott Heitzmann (SE) and Galen Smith or Ken Booker (TE). Like last year, the Rock-A-Chaws will operate with a run/pass type of offense. Coach Lyons' teams have been known to throw the football quite a lot and use a wide-open offensive attack. Coach Lyons stated that the Rocks have set some goals for the season. "With fingers crossed, we hope to win each game, emphasizing one at a time."

The Rocks are looking forward to the rematch with Pope John Paul which opens the season on Sept. 2. "PJP has a very strong, physical running game. They run a Power I and Flanker I offense. This game will be a tough one for us to win, especially with their two scrimmages and jam-boree that they will have played before our game."

Harvesting problems solved for coastal herring complex

By Ralph J. Ballew
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service
BILOXI—With the recent discovery of the potential of the latent fisheries resources in the Gulf, made up of the coastal herring complex, the first problem centered around methods of harvesting the fish.

The complex is made up of 14 species of herring, sardines, anchovy, shad and other fish once thought to be too small in size for economic importance. "The coastal herring complex and butterfish, a species found with the complex, requires a new approach to fishing and new fishing gear," said Dr. Andrew Kemmerer, director of the National Marine Fisheries Service in Pascagoula. "The larger shrimp boats, those in excess of 70 ft., can be converted to harvest the fish."

According to John Watson, Jr., harvesting systems branch chief, National Marine Fisheries Service, fishing gear has been modified to catch the fish. "These fish occur in clear, warm water and they swim extremely fast," Watson said. "They are a schooling fish that stay in mid-water to near bottom."

Watson and staff worked out successful harvesting techniques by having scuba divers observe the fish while they were being caught.

"We discovered that we could get fish in the trawl, but when we tried to haul them in the boat, they would swim out of the net," Watson said.

"We successfully modified the trawl, by adding a fish funnel—similar to a fish trap—toward the front of the trawl," Watson said. "When the boat slows down to pull the catch on board, floats on the mouth of the funnel cause it to collapse and the fish are trapped." The service has applied for a patent on the process. Watson said optimum catches are in the 600 foot depth range, but successful catches have been made at depths of 900 feet. "We are now working on trawls to catch fish in the mid-water range," he said. Kemmerer said part of the Services' job is to learn how to catch fish and to tell fishermen how to catch fish. He believes the technology is available for harvesting the latent resources in the gulf.

Nace moving to USM

Former Hattiesburg High baseball standout Todd Nace has transferred to The University of Southern Mississippi and will be eligible to compete during the 1988-89 season.

Nace, an outfielder-pitcher for coach Jim Pierce at Hattiesburg High, signed originally with Mississippi State and after a redshirt year played the outfield for the Bulldogs last season, hitting .273 with 24 RBIs, 11 doubles and four stolen bases.

He also was all-state two years and was voted the most valuable player in the Mississippi High School All-Star game following his senior season when he hit .414 with two home runs and 31 RBIs. He also completed a 10-1 career pitching record, and was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds following his high school senior season.

There are certain NCAA criteria that allow spring sports athletes to transfer from one school to another and be eligible immediately. Having met those conditions, Nace will be eligible to compete for coach Hill Denson's Golden Eagles this season.

"Certainly Todd is a quality player and we feel he will make an immediate contribution to our program here at USM," said Denson.

Nace, a 6-0, 185-pounder who bats and throws left, will be a sophomore at USM and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nace.

MSU basketball schedule includes top-ranked DePaul

A first-ever matchup with perennial independent powerhouse DePaul in the opening round of the USF&G Sugar Bowl Classic and 14 contests at Humphrey Coliseum highlight the 1988-89 Mississippi State University basketball schedule approved by MSU director of athletics Larry Templeton.

The 29-game slate opens with a Nov. 21 exhibition contest with the Arkansas Express and concludes with the 1989 Southeastern Conference Basketball Tournament to be held Mar. 9-12 at the Thompson-Boling Arena in Knoxville, Tenn.

"We feel our schedule will be both challenging for our basketball team and attractive for our fans," said third-year Bulldog head coach Richard Williams.

Following the season-opening exhibition contest with Arkansas Express, Mississippi State will entertain Rice University (Nov. 28) and Southeastern Louisiana (Dec. 1).

Contests with the University of New Orleans (Dec. 13) and East Carolina University (Dec. 20) round out MSU's non-conference home basketball schedule.

Returning all ten lettermen from last year's surprising 14-15 squad, Mississippi State will make four television appearances in January during the upcoming basketball campaign. MSU's Jan. 19 contest with Georgia at Humphrey Coliseum will be televised nationally by ESPN, while the Bulldogs' home contests with Tennessee (Jan. 7) and Auburn (Jan. 11) as well as their Jan. 25 road matchup with intrastate rival Ole Miss will all be aired by Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions.

Flag football league sponsored by UNO

The University of New Orleans 1988 Sunday Flag Football League will begin play Sunday, Sept. 25. Competition will be Sundays through Nov. 20.

The league will consist of 40 men's teams and eight co-recreational teams from the New Orleans area.

Entry deadline is Tuesday, Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. For further information contact the UNO Department of Recreation and Intramural Sports at 1-504-2286-6357.

year with 63 solo tackles, while assisting on 39 other tackles and racking up three sacks. Also playing at linebacker will be last year's leading free safety Aubrey Falls. Falls, a 5-9, 185-pound senior of Webb had 50 solo tackles and 23 assists.

New to the linebacking corps will be Trace McRaney, a 6-0, 220-pound junior of Bay St. Louis, and John Williams, a 6-3, 230-pound junior of Sebastopol.

The secondary will consist of Bob Harrell, Todd Zanetti and Chad Marks. Harrell, a 5-8, 165-pound junior of West Point had 23 tackles and six assists last year. Zanetti, 5-10 and 175 pounds, of Pensacola, Fla., had 20 tackles and eight assists. Marks, a 5-10, 180-pound junior of Vidalia, La. had 26 solos and 18 assists last year. Also to see action will be junior Edward Benson and freshmen Doug Mitchell and Murray Meadows.

Punting and place kicking duties will be held by freshmen

Steve White of Germantown, Tenn. and Chris Verdrey of Mechanicsville, Tenn., respectively.

Kicker Stace McRaney of Bay St. Louis will sit out this season due to injuries sustained in an automobile accident last November.

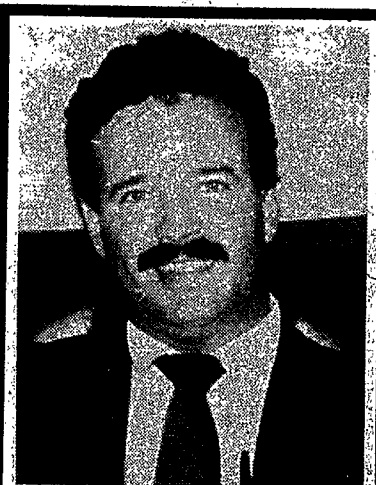

Davis summed up the squad. "As you can see, we have a lot of kids starting that are either freshmen or have seen only limited action. It's going to be tough at first, but I'm sure we'll get everyone situated."

Commenting on the offense, Davis said, "Our passing game and running game are in good hands right now. But it all depends on how our relatively new offensive line performs."

Davis had the same sentiments on the defense. "Last year our defensive secondary had some weaknesses, but we seem to have shored them up this year. It all depends on how our defensive line performs. If our team has any weakness right now, it'll probably be that we lost so many starters from both lines because of graduation or other reasons."

He later added, "It's tough to win when you only have three games to play at home and five on the road. And it's also going to be tough when 21 out of the 55 players we have are freshmen. We're going to need all the support we can get."

What it's like on the Women's Pro Bass Tour

Certainly one of the great joys of bass fishing is that the sport can be enjoyed by men, women and children of all ages. Even in the professional ranks, there are tournaments specifically for women as well as men.

In fact, there are two separate, professional tournament circuits for the ladies, Lady Bass, Inc., based in Monroe, La.; and Bass 'n Gal, Inc., in Arlington, Tex.

Each conducts four tournaments during the year, as well as a classic championship for the top qualifiers. The first prize in any of these contests is usually a fully-rigged bass boat valued at approximately $18,000.

"We participate because we love the competition," says Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Burma Thomas of Rainville, Ala. "It's work, but if you enjoy it, then it's also a lot of fun."

Thomas, who began competing nationally in 1981, has won 12 national titles, including two world championships. She drives more than 75,000 miles annually from Florida to Indiana to Texas to compete on both circuits, but as a full-time computer operator for a manufacturing firm, she must use her company vacation time, as well as accumulated overtime hours, in order to compete.

Between 150 and 200 women usually enter these national tournaments. The majority are married and began fishing because their husbands enjoy fishing, but surprisingly, very few of the husbands fish competitively themselves.

Some of the spouses do not even like fishing, says Thomas, but they support their wives and come to each tournament.

The ladies' tournaments are conducted much the same as those for men. Entry fees average between $150 and $200, and the contestants are permitted three practice fishing days immediately prior to either two or three days of competition. The tournaments begin just after daybreak and continue until about 3 p.m. when the weigh-in begins. The ladies are paired by drawing, and change partners daily.

"Ladies come from throughout the United States to compete," says Thomas. "I'd say their average age is between 35 and 40, and for some it is really a family affair. Wives practice with husbands, and in one instance, a mother actually competes against her daughter."

"Women's professional bass fishing is steadily improving and gaining in recognition," Thomas continues. "Only a few of the women have financial sponsors, but many have merchandise sponsors who provide them with equipment, and more firms are expressing sponsorship interest each year."

Surprisingly, perhaps, is the fact many of the competitors have less than 10 years of bass fishing experience.

"In addition to the love of competition we all have," explains the Evinrude Outboards pro, "I believe the camaraderie we've developed among the competitors is a major reason for coming to the tournaments. I know I have developed friendships I never would have found otherwise, and I know those friendships will continue long after I stop competing."

Both professional circuits conduct a classic championship at the conclusion of their respective tournament seasons. Only a limited number of ladies qualify, through points accumulated by their finishing positions in the regular tournaments.

Many sponsors, as well as members of the press, are on hand throughout classic week, and during the practice and competition days are paired with the ladies to act as observers. Classic sites change annually, with the location kept secret until near the end of the season.

Thomas believes joining a local bass fishing club is an excellent way to learn the basics of fishing because "in a club you can often get to fish with a more experienced angler. When you have a good teacher you'll learn that much faster."

The long hours of driving to and from each tournament is one of the most difficult aspects of professional fishing, says Thomas, and when husbands can't accompany their wives, the ladies often share rides or form caravans and travel together.

Once at the tournament site, many also practice together, since not all the ladies have boats. Since few have sponsors supporting them, expenses mount quickly, and include not only motel rooms and meals for a full week, but also oil and gasoline for their boats and tow vehicles, fishing licenses, and any additional equipment they may require.

"I couldn't advise ladies to enter professional fishing as a way to make a living," says Thomas, "and I certainly would warn them about expecting overnight success, because the competition is tough."

"But if a woman wants to improve her fishing ability, and if she enjoys competition, then it's certainly worth a try. I've been competing for seven years, and I still look forward to every tournament I go to."

Defensive backs—experience welcomed

By Mark Brock
Sports Information
Student Assistant

UNIVERSITY—The Ole Miss Rebel defensive secondary will be bolstered by the return of starters Stevon Moore, Todd Sandroni and Chris Mitchell in 1988.

"We have some good experience returning at all four positions in the secondary, but still we lack the depth of past years," said Ole Miss secondary coach Ron Case.

Right cornerback Stevon Moore (6-0, 205), a senior from Wiggins, is the most experienced returnee being a three-year letterman. This season he has been selected to the pre-season All-Southeastern Conference teams by the Birmingham News, Lindy's and second team All-America by the National Football League Draft Report.

"Stevon is an excellent athlete with all the experience in the world and we expect him to have a good year," said Case.

Case also stated that moving Moore around last season to fill in when Don Price was struggling and Chris Mitchell not quite ready to play, hurt Moore as he was forced to play several positions that he was not familiar with. However, Moore still managed to intercept five passes and record 49 tackles.

"Moore has all the tools for a great cornerback with his size, quickness, speed, strength and nose for the football," said Case.

Todd Sandroni (6-2, 200) a sophomore from Shaw, Miss., is a pre-season All-SEC pick at safety by Athlon, Lindy's and College and Pro Football News weekly.

"Todd had a great redshirt season and responded well in the pressure situations he was put in last season," said Case.

Sandroni had one interception in seven straight games for the school mark. His seven 'oskies' for the year was a school mark for freshmen. He also had 74 tackles, while earning Freshman All-America honors from Football News.

Case says he hopes Sandroni can come back and use his experience to be a consistent safety for his remaining three years at Ole Miss.

At left cornerback, the Rebels have part-time starter Chris Mitchell (6-½, 185), a sophomore from Town Creek, Ala., returning as number one with former starter Don Rice (5-11½, 198, a junior from Jackson, Miss., coming back after a semester at Hinds Junior College.

"Chris had a good spring and is the starter unless someone takes the job from him," said

Case. "Don could come back and provide us some depth we need or even start. Hopefully he has matured while working and going to school to overcome his loss of confidence last season."

A. D. Matthews (6-1, 215), a senior from Drew, Miss., played in 11 games in 1987 and started against Mississippi State and will go into fall practice as the number one strong safety.

"A.D. knows his coverages, gives good run support, but needs work on his speed," said Case.

Matthews was in on 30 tackles, had two passes broken up and caused one fumble during the 1987 season. He had 12 stops and two pass break-ups against Mississippi State.

Chauncey Godwin (6-0, 175), a freshman from Tupelo, Miss., moved from quarterback to cornerback during spring practice and could be a factor this year.

"Godwin had only nine practice days with us during the spring and showed an ability to play the corner with the smarts and competitiveness to help," said Case.

For depth at the safety positions, Case is looking for help from either Ronnie McKinney (5-11, 203), a sophomore from Magnolia, Miss., or Roger Hancock (6-3, 205), a sophomore from Benton, Miss.

"McKinney has been working hard, but has never played the position before and Hancock was switched to outside line-backer during the spring," said Case.

Case said he needs someone to step in and provide depth in the secondary in the fall, especially at the two safety positions to strengthen the secondary into a good unit.

New offensive line touted by PRJC

The competition for a starting position in the Pearl River College offensive backfield is something similar to a family war.

It is a position Mike Nelson, the Wildcats' head coach, loves to be in, especially after losing several outstanding running backs from last year's explosive offense.

"We are blessed with an abundance of talent," said Nelson. "And what's even better the athletes are mostly district players."

Returning running backs include 10-game starter Roland Johnson of Hattiesburg and fullback William Earl Harper of Bassfield. Tony Jurich of Picayune, who played high school ball at Slidell, is the other seasoned Cat runner.

Johnson picked up 760 yards and scored nine touchdowns. Harper and Jurich both received a lot of playing time during the last half of the '87 season. Harper averaged almost seven yards per carry, while Jurich averaged six yards per try.

Pushing the sophomores and each other are four outstanding freshmen. Their names have been commonplace with success during the past few years.

In camp this fall are Scooter Byrd of Purvis, Demetric Hall of Picayune, Timbo Oglesby of Petal and Ricky Walk of Hattiesburg High.

"All these players were super runners for their high school team," said Nelson. "And it is nothing less than a battle out there for the starting role."

Actually Nelson believes in having more than one player ready for action. "We'll have a player start, but that doesn't mean the others will not see action," said Nelson. "Competition will make them all better performers."

"In fact they are a little bruised up," said Bill Martin, the Cats' assistant coach. "They are all running hard, but they are also getting hit hard. But, they will be alright."

"Now, what we have to do is get an offensive line for them to run behind," said Martin. "Our backs won't need a big hole or opening. But they will need assistance up front."

At the quarterback slot, sophomore Scott Nease from DeRidder, La., has tabs on the starting position, however, Bogalusa's Eric Brister will see action early in the year.

"Scott has experience and a lot of leadership ability," Nelson said. Nease passed for 12 touchdowns as a freshman.

Brister signed with the Wildcats last year but did not enroll in school in the fall. He was enrolled this past spring and he took part in spring training.

"Brister has all kinds of speed and ability," said Nelson. "He will add excitement to our offense."

Prentiss' Keith Hutchins and Hattiesburg's Tony Lewis are two other signal callers for the Wildcats. Both have good running ability and know the mechanics of the game.

A couple of other players who will give the Cats speed at the wide receiver and wing back positions are Louisiana's Nolan Booker and Terry Carter.

Booker, from Covington, played for the Wildcats in 1985 and Carter, from Pearl River, signed with the Cats last season but elected not to play. Both will see a lot of action.

"These guys can really fly," said Nelson. "They add another dimension to our offense."

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTES

In turn-of-the-century England militant suffragettes scorned more traditional methods of protest and took to the streets in a campaign to win the right to vote. Many risked their lives to capture the attention of a reluctant government.

Jane Alexander hosts 'Shoulder to Shoulder', a rebroadcast of a special six-part miniseries which dramatizes the women's suffrage movement through the lives of those who devoted themselves to the cause, beginning at 10 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 25, on Mississippi ETV.

This dramatic series, with each episode an individual tale, is drawn from actual letters, diaries, newspaper accounts, speeches and court and prison records. This encore presentation commemorates the 70th anniversary of British women's right to vote in 1918.

Farm Bureau sponsors Theriot, Koenenn at seminar

Troy Theriot and Leonard Koenenn of Hancock County recently took part in a four-day safety seminar at Roosevelt State Park in Morton, Miss. The seminar, sponsored by the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation's Safety Department, was attended by 42 teenagers from central and southern counties of the state. An earlier program was conducted at Grenada for northern counties.

Safety Department personnel Mike Blankenship, Bob Hickey and John Hubbard presented classes in defensive driving, first aid, CPR, gun safety, three-wheeler safety, tractor and machinery safety and fire safety. Each session was designed to provide basic safety skills while developing an increased safety awareness.

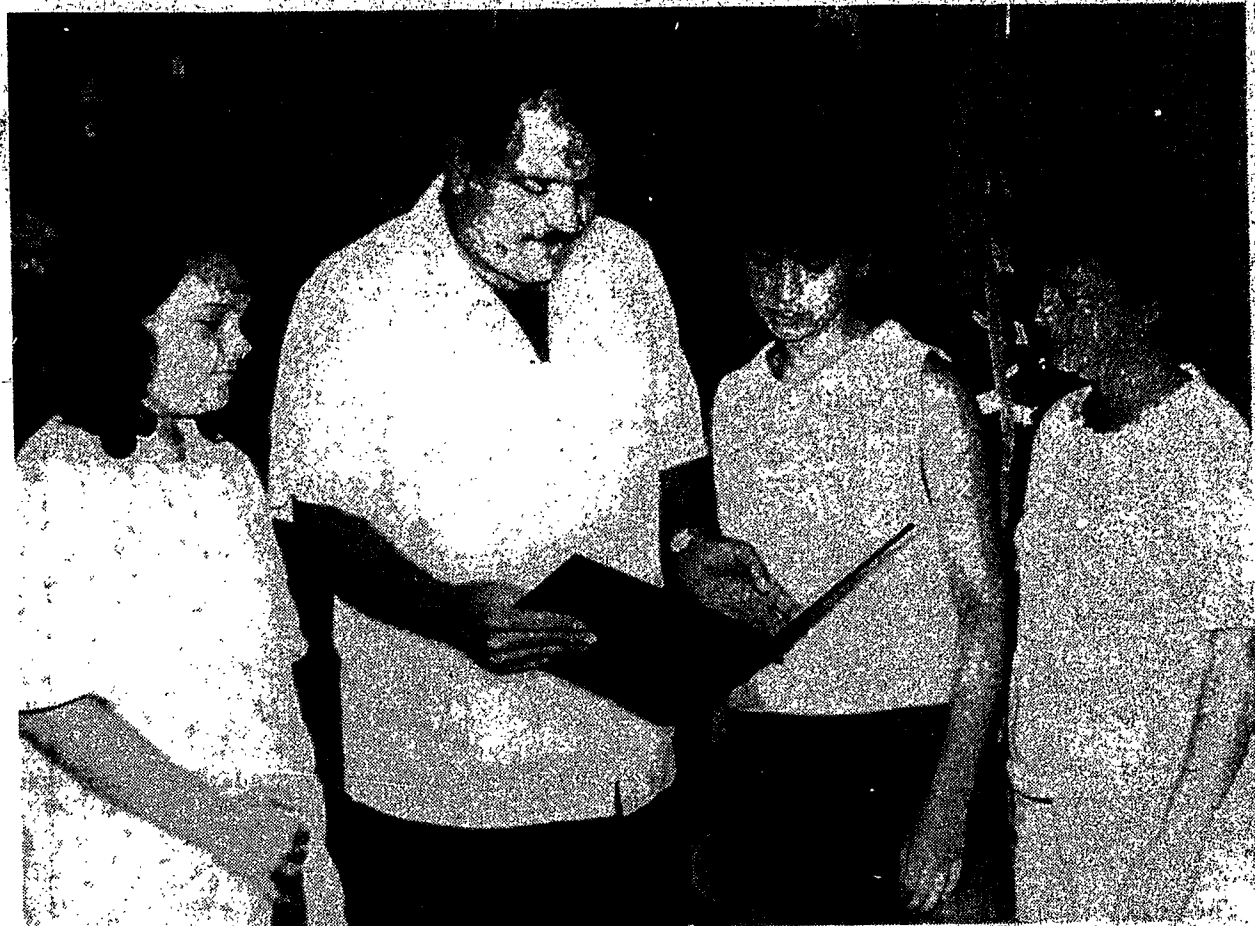

While classroom sessions and demonstrations were primary activities, students were also given ample time for recreational activities that included swimming and softball.

The safety seminar has been a part of Farm Bureau's youth programming since 1970. Several thousand young men and women have benefited from that program through increased safety knowledge and the development of friendships that last a lifetime.

Anyone interested in participating in future Safety Seminar should contact their local county Farm Bureau office at 255-1133.

Lagarde completes NASA workshop

Andrew Lagarde, a teacher at Pass Christian High School, has successfully completed a NASA Education Workshop for Math and Science Teachers (NEWMAST).

The workshop was conducted Aug. 1-12 at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis. Lagarde was one of eight teachers selected as NEWMAST participant in the Stennis Center workshop.

NEWMAST is a national collaborative effort of NASA, the National Science Teachers Association (NSTA) and the National Science Foundation. The concept for the program was based on the classroom and hands-on training offered by the Stennis Space Center's annual Aerospace Education Workshop which began in 1981.

The Stennis Space Center and the eight other NASA field centers located around the country host the NEWMAST education workshops during the summer months. The educators who participate in the project are selected by a committee of representatives from NSTA and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

The aim of the workshop is to provide the math and science teachers with a first-hand report on current NASA programs and technology developments.

Lagarde and the other NEWMAST participants are available for teacher-in-service workshops to share the knowledge and training experiences they gained during the two-week session.

Jim McMurtry, SSC's aerospace education specialist, conducted the workshop for the fourth consecutive year. He said the educators were briefed by resident scientific and engineering specialists and they observed work in progress at the center. A highlight of the workshop for the teachers was viewing a static test firing of a Space Shuttle main engine. One of the Stennis Center's missions is to test and certify for flight all Space Shuttle main engines used in actual shuttle missions.

Several of the Stennis Center's resident agencies again joined NASA in taking part in the NEWMAST sessions. Topics of discussions and presentations included space science and propulsion, oceanography, remote sensing and Earth sciences.

Coast Guard Academy seeks local applicants

The United States Coast Guard Academy has announced that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1998. Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointment or geographical quotas. Applications for appointment must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to Dec. 15.

Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test

(SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the Dec. 10 administration for the ACT, and the Dec. 3 administration for the SAT.

The competition for appointment as Cadet is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and demonstrate proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

To qualify for the competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1989.

All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 20, 1989. Regulations stipulate that all applicants must have completed three units in English and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

Coast Guard Cadets obtain an excellent undergraduate education at no personal expense. In addition, they receive pay and allowances fully adequate to fulfill their ordinary living expenses. The constantly updated academy curriculum leads to a bachelor of science degree with a strong academic emphasis on engineering and science. The selected major studies, when combined with varied elective courses, establish a solid foundation for a challenging career.

Graduates of the academy are awarded a bachelor of science degree and are commissioned as Ensigns in the United States Coast Guard. Selected officers may pursue further postgraduate education and specialized training at many leading civilian and military graduate or professional schools, in such fields as aviation, business administration, electronics, engineering, law and oceanography.

The young academy graduate can look forward to a varied, exciting, and demanding career as a regular Coast Guard Officer. The Coast Guard performs essential humanitarian missions vital to the safety and saving of lives at sea.

Under the Department of Transportation, the Coast Guard establishes and coordinates search and rescue operations by ship and plane, maintains advanced electronic and other aids to navigation scattered around the globe, operates the icebreakers which clear the way for all polar expeditions, and enforces marine law and all aspects of merchant marine safety. In addition, the Coast Guard has responsibility for boating safety and marine environmental protection.

New faculty, staff number 146 at MSU

When the 1988-89 academic year begins at Mississippi State, many fresh new faces in the crowd will belong to professors.

The university has hired 146 new faculty and professional staff members since August of 1987. That's 61 more than 85 the university has averaged hiring yearly in this decade.

The total includes teachers, researchers, administrators, agricultural experiment station and extension service professionals, and professional support staff.

Most of the new employees will report to work for the first time at Mississippi State this week.

Dr. John R. Darling, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said, "In the past year, we have been recruiting faculty in most departments. We have considered many outstanding candidates with excellent credentials, including diverse educational backgrounds from many leading institutions of higher learning."

Of the 146 total, 62—most of them teachers and researchers—hold doctoral degrees. Six are deans and department heads.

"We are fortunate to be able to select new faculty who we believe will make significant contributions to the state of Mississippi, especially in teaching, research, and service missions of Mississippi State University," Darling continued.

New faculty members hold advanced and terminal degrees from such prestigious and distant schools as the University of Pretoria in South Africa, Plymouth Polytechnic School of Architecture and the University of Wales in England, the Universities of Hiroshima and Kyoto in Japan, the University of Alaska, Washington State, California-Berkeley, North Dakota State and New Hampshire.

Also represented are Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N.Y., Notre Dame, Duke and Cornell, as well as land-grant schools and state universities throughout the country. In all, 25 states and three foreign countries are represented.

About a third of the new faculty and staff are from Mississippi. Twenty-seven of the new faculty and staff, the largest group, will join the College of Arts and Sciences. All Mississippi State undergraduates take some courses in that college. In terms of faculty, it is the largest college at MSU, teaching 40 percent of all undergraduate credit hours.

In the 1987-88 academic year alone, the College of Arts and Sciences nearly doubled its doctoral programs—from four to seven—by adding PhD programs in mathematics, computer science, and physics instruction in engineering physics.

Second in numbers of new faculty and staff is the Division of Student Affairs with 18. All student agencies are under that division's umbrella, including housing, student health, student government, and student financial aid.

The College of Engineering, with 13 new members, is the only other entity in double figures.

New administrators, their positions at Mississippi State, and the institutions at which they previously served:

Dr. Robert A. Altenkirch, dean of the College of Engineering and professor of mechanical engineering; University of Kentucky.

Charles L. Bradshaw, acting head of the department of computer science and visiting professor; Vanderbilt.

Dr. Henry J. Donaghy, head of the department of English and professor; Kansas State University.

Dr. Michael Hittmeier, head of the department of wood science and technology and professor; International Paper Co. at Yardley, Pa.

Dr. Paul F. Jacobs, head of the department of philosophy and religion and associate professor; University of St. Thomas at Houston.

Dr. Richard D. Koshel, dean of the Graduate School and professor of physics; Illinois State University.

W. S. "Bud" Smith, registrar; Auburn University.

Dr. Charles W. Washington, director of the Stennis Institute of Government and holder of the Stennis Chair; George Washington University.

Mississippi ANG unit to celebrate

The Second Battalion, 20th Special Forces Group, Mississippi Army National Guard, will hold its 25th Anniversary celebration on Saturday, September 10th.

When first organized on September 22, 1963 the unit was designated as Company E, 20th Special Forces Group and later changed to Company B before becoming the Second Battalion. Units of the Second Battalion are located at Jackson, Columbus and Camp Shelby. According to the battalion commander LTC Michael Strojny, approximately 1,600 people have served as members during its 25 years. The battalion strength is currently over 300 personnel.

The public is invited to attend a parachute demonstration at 2 p.m., Saturday, September 10 in Ridgeland, Ms on Richardson Road. Other events will include static displays and a rappelling demonstration.

2,017-second test conducted on B-1 position

A successful, 2,017-second test of a Space Shuttle main engine marked a milestone as the longest test ever conducted in the free world on any large liquid propulsion engine.

This was the first of three 2,017-second tests planned to demonstrate additional margin on the engine.

The static firing conducted on the B-1 test position took place Aug. 3, the same day ceremonies were held dedicating this NASA facility the John C. Stennis Space Center.

Engine 2206 ignited at 8:40 p.m. and ran approximately 34 minutes. During the test, which was a part of a seven-test series planned for the engine, 510,000 gallons of hydrogen and 210,000 gallons of oxygen were burned by the engine. Ten million gallons of water were used for cooling the diffuser and flame bucket. Approximately 200 parachutists will participate in the demonstration.

Previously, the longest test conducted at the Stennis Space Center was a 1,078-second firing. This duration was achieved July 26 with the first test in the series on Engine 2206. Another test of the same duration was run on the engine July 30.

The B-1 test position provides the Stennis Center's newest capability for single-engine testing.

$9 million renovation planned at Miss. State

Mississippi's largest university campus is getting ready for a $9 million facelift.

More than a dozen major repair and renovation projects to be started in the next few months at Mississippi State University will update teaching and research facilities and prolong the lifetime of buildings worth millions of dollars.

A year from now, the theater in the university's Creative Arts Complex will be fully operational for the first time since the building was erected in 1984.

By the start of 1990, the rapidly expanding computer science department will be able to occupy a single well-equipped building, rather than four separate locations.

Beginning this fall, selected classrooms and faculty offices across the campus will receive new paint, improved lighting and hundreds of overdue minor repairs.

Other projects planned for the next year will make the campus safer, more convenient and more comfortable. Additional parking, new mechanical systems, roof repairs, and asbestos removal are on the agenda.

Those projects and more will be possible with Mississippi State's share of a $40 million bond issue approved this year by the state Legislature to upgrade university campuses. MSU officials are working with architects, engineers and the state Bureau of Buildings and Grounds to get the projects under way.

Mississippi State was allocated more than $7.2 million for repair and renovation on the main campus, and the Division of Agriculture, Forestry and Veterinary Medicine received an additional $1.2 million. Grants totaling about $800,000 will help support three of the planned projects, pushing the total currently available for renovation above $9 million.

The Etheredge Chemical Engineering Laboratory will be upgraded primarily through a grant from Dow Chemical. State repair and renovation money will provide $150,000 of the $512,000 total.

State funds will pay for half of a $479,000 expansion of animal care facilities in biological sciences, veterinary medicine and poultry science to be completed next fall. The funds will match a grant from the National Institutes of Health.

Another $550,000 in state funds will be used for a new central cooling plant to serve six campus buildings. Payments received from a court settlement with Exxon Corp. distributed in the state will provide $194,000 for that project, to be finished by spring of 1990.

Among the major improvement project to begin by early 1989:

Butler Hall, a former residence hall, will be renovated and equipped for $2 million to house the computer science department. Computer science faculty offices, classrooms and laboratories are now scattered across the campus. The fast-growing discipline enrolls more than 300 majors and serves hundreds of other students. Mississippi State offers the state's only PhD in computer science.

The Creative Arts Complex, constructed five years ago with grant funds and private contributions, will be completed at last with $825,000 in new funds. The basement level, now a bare concrete shell, will be finished for classrooms and offices, allowing the communication department faculty to be consolidated in one facility. The first-class theater will be equipped with lighting, seats and stage rigging for the first time.

Stately old Lee Hall, a Mississippi landmark and a campus focal point, will be equipped with an elevator and spruced up and repaired. The $390,000 project should be finished by early 1990.

McCain Engineering Building will get new insulated windows and an exterior renovation by next fall at a cost of $500,000.

The YMCA Building, which houses the university counseling center and academic offices, is in line for exterior repairs and its auditorium will be renovated to accommodate use by student groups. That $180,000 project is expected to be complete by December 1989.

George Hall, originally constructed in 1902 as the university infirmary, will be renovated for $95,000 and will continue to provide offices for institutional support areas. That project could be finished by next fall.

The Intramural Wellness Center next to McCarthy Gymnasium, heavily used by students and faculty for health and fitness, will get new restrooms by next fall with external improvements to follow. That project is budgeted at $93,000.

The main building at the Mississippi State Golf Course, used for academic programs in professional golf management and agronomy, will be upgraded to include classrooms and laboratories and house teaching equipment. That $250,000 project will likely be finished by fall 1989.

A new parking lot behind McCarthy Gymnasium will be completed and a new access road constructed by November 1989 with $150,000 in bond funds, and a like amount will be used to provide parking curbs and drainage at the Humphrey Coliseum gravel parking lot.

Asbestos removal, fire and smoke alarm installation, utility improvements and roofing projects account for more than $1 million of the planned expenditures. That work is scheduled for completion by January 1990.

Improvements slated for the Division of Agriculture, Forestry and Veterinary Medicine include a variety of roofing and utility repairs. The fourth floor of the Wise Center, which houses primarily the College of Veterinary Medicine, will be renovated to accommodate a Biotechnology Center. The first floor of Best Extension Center will be renovated for use by the recently consolidated information services of the Agriculture Division.

The university's share of the bond issue also included an additional $2.5 million in capital improvement funds to complete the financing for a new $6.5 million instructional building for the School of Forest Resources. The remaining portion of the building cost was generated by the Division of Agriculture through operations such as timber sales. The School of Forest Resources building is expected to be located on the central campus, but site selection is not final.

RHEA SCAFIDI, school food supervisor for Hancock County School District has successfully completed the requirements for graduation from the Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College in cooking and baking. She maintained a four-point average in the occupational education program while attending school five nights a week. She received her diploma July 28. "The school district is proud to have employees as Rhea, who are willing to put forth the time and effort to continue educational pursuits. We see the results in more professional attitudes and on-the-job performance," Superintendent Terrell Randolph said.

She will be honored at the NAPS National Conference 'Bridge to Success' in San Francisco, in September 1988.

College students cautioned on overspending plastic money

By Janet K. Lukens

Consumer Management Specialist

Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Credit card issuers are now targeting future 'big spenders' by giving easy credit to the nation's 12 million college students. Students are being bombarded by unsolicited credit cards and pre-approved applications. They are in the mail, on school bulletin boards, and in shopping bags at campus bookstores. Because credit cards symbolize adulthood, clout, prestige and convenience, they are readily accepted by many students.

Caution is advised for students and parents in dealing with these easy-access credit cards. If you are just becoming acquainted with the use of credit, it is recommended that you apply for or accept only one card. The use of one card will enable you to more easily monitor and control your charge purchases. It is also suggested that if you use credit, charge only the amount that you can pay off monthly. If you are unable to pay the balance in full each month, be sure you can make payments that will not prevent you from meeting your other bills or expenses.

Keep in mind other important money management principles such as goalsetting and planning. Determine your goals ahead of time and develop a budget plan that will allow you to reach goals and meet expenses. Learn to tell the difference between your wants and your needs. Possibly some less expensive option would suffice until you can afford the luxury version.

If you are the parent of a college student, teach them wise money management practices and caution against the overuse of credit. Be aware that excessive credit use can sidetrack goals. Even though only 4 percent of college-enrolled cardholders default, many are faced with postponing education or burdening parents until they can lower the debt. Not only do they run the risk of ruining their credit ratings, they may also limit career choices if they must choose immediate high income and low expenses over future potential in a first job.

For free information or assistance on budgeting and goalsetting, contact the Consumer Money Management Center at 1-888-4710.

MILITARY MENTION

PVT BERNARD

Army Pvt. Felton J. Bernard, son of Althea Bowser and Felton J. Bernard, both of Pass Christian, has arrived for duty at Fort Richardson, Alaska.

Full orchestra backing A Chorus Line

Les Muncaster, musical director of Riviera Productions' 'A Chorus Line,' believes the show has, technically, the 'toughest score' ever written for an American musical play.

An 11-piece orchestra, he explains, has recorded on tape the entire score, music by Marvin Hamlisch, lyrics by Edward Kleban. So the cast of 19 singers and dancers now have, at each rehearsal all the intricate rhythms with which to work—"the music and the dance that will fuse into the finished production," says Muncaster.

The full orchestra and cast will meet for the first time at a dress rehearsal, shortly before 'A Chorus Line' arrives at Biloxi's Saenger Theater on Aug. 26 for three performances.

Riviera Productions, a Gulf Coast organization, will present the musical, now in its 14th year on Broadway, at 8 p.m. on Aug. 26 and at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Aug. 27.

Among the score of the award-laden musical: 'What I Did For Love,' 'One' and 'The Music and the Mirror.' Muncaster, of Ocean Springs, who has tackled numerous musicals, says 'A Chorus Line' has the hardest score of any American show—"from a technical standpoint."

Among his credits: musical director for 'Mame,' 'Lil Abner' and 'The Apple Tree' at Gulfport Little Theater, and for 'Oklahoma' and 'Finian's Rainbow' at Keesler Air Force Base; a performer in 'Stop the World I Want to Get Off' at Shreveport, La., and Wiesbaden, Germany, and in 'The Pajama Game' and 'On a Clear Day You Can See Forever,' both at Shreveport.

Reserved seat tickets for the Aug. 26 and 27 night performances are $10 in advance and $12 at showtime. General admission tickets for the Aug. 27 matinee are $8 in advance and $10 at showtime. Matinee tickets for senior citizens and students are $7. Matinee has no reserved seats.

Advance tickets are available at Mississippi Coast Coliseum, Gulf Coast Arts Council, Hancock Bank in downtown Gulfport, Gulf National Bank in Bay St. Louis, and Gayle Clark Artisans in Ocean Springs.

Rocks expect bright '88 with 16 vets returning

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws, with 16 returning lettermen, are looking forward to a good season.

Head Coach Ken Lyons, who will be assisted by Larry Ramsey and Andy Kivlan, are "very optimistic" about the coming season despite their loss of 24 of last year's lettermen through graduation.

The team has 54 players out this year with the offensive line and most of the defense consisting of last year's B-team players, which Lyons said may cause the Rocks a few problems.

However, he is anticipating strong points in the team's passing attack and its aggressive defense.

There will be mostly new faces on the offensive line because only two starters are returning from last year, when St. Stanislaus had a 6-4 record highlighted by a 22-21 win over St. John, a 23-14 win over Long Beach and a 22-18 win over local rival Bay High.

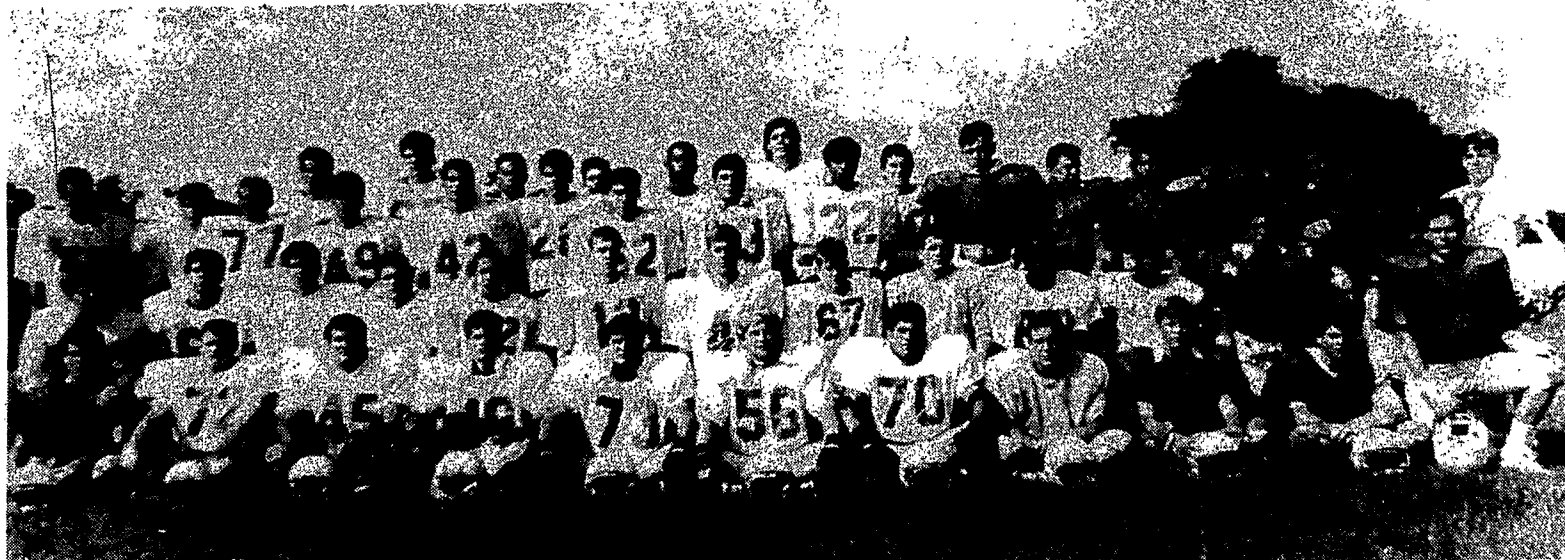

That new line will have the advantage of both an experienced backfield and experienced receivers and a combination of running and passing, Lyons said.

The defensive line, expected to use a pressure style of play, will have a new interior and backfield with the veterans placed at the ends, he added.

Lyons, who says the key to victory this year will be "intensity" in a "big play run and pass offense from a basic slot-I format" and "a multi-pressure defense with an eight-man front."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The beat of drums, a salute to our flag, an invocation and the shrill of a whistle will signal the opening of area high school football seasons on Friday, September 2.

The Tigers of Bay High, Hawks of Hancock North Central, Rock-A-Chaws of St. Stanislaus and Pirates of Pass Christian will all take the field for the beginning of the 1988 season which will end on November the 4.

Coaches and assistant coaches will be hoping to play well enough in the regular season to end up playing for a district and possibly state title and hope to receive a bowl invite.

Much preparation has already been made by coaching staffs, such as game scheduling, spring and pre-game practice.

School officials have all ensured that the stadiums are ready for play by checking such things as lighting, concession stands, bleachers, public address systems, lawn, and restroom facilities.

Let us not forget the bands, as they too, have endured hours of practicing maneuvers and marching exercises to entertain spectators and encourage their team.

Booster clubs have made plans to support their teams, have snacks available, all hope to have large spectator attendance for home games as well as those away.

The one thing the Hawks, Rock-A-Chaws, Tigers and Pirates all need will be good fan attendance at all games.

The quality of play at a high school football game always seems better with good fan support.

As the 1988 high school season begins, it is hoped that each and every team member will have a good and safe year.

We hope to see you at the games.

Bay High's Tigers under new leadership

BY D.C. HARVILL
Bay Senior High's Tiger Football Team has a new new coaching staff.

The new head coach, Bob Lumpkin, a Carrere native, served for two years as a Bay High assistant coach before being promoted this year upon the retirement of Cleveland Williams from the head coach position.

Lumpkin is a 14 year coaching veteran. Before coming to Bay High, he had been head coach at Pass Christian High for five years.

"It's good to be head coach again," Lumpkin said. "I've enjoyed the two years under Coach Williams; I'm following a good man."

Lumpkin admits the team has weaknesses, but is optimistic about the coming season.

"We will be competitive and will get better as the year goes by, barring any injuries. This is definitely a building year for Bay High football," he said.

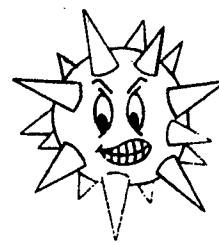

"I'm looking forward to seeing that we establish a quality junior high program again, because that is where we build from."

Lumpkin, 40, lives in Bay St. Louis with his wife and two children.

Assisting at the Tiger's helm are Dodd Lee and Royce Peters, both beginning their first year at Bay High.

Bay High to field young team this year

This year's edition of the Bay High Tigers has new coaches and inexperienced players looking forward to a season of progress.

Bob Lumpkin, who has served as an assistant coach for the past three years, has moved up to head coach this year.

He is being assisted by Dodd Lee and Royce Peters, both new to the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District.

The Tigers, who had a six-win, four-loss record last year, have a "young, inexperienced team with very little depth," Lumpkin said.

The 26 players out for the team this year include only one returning back, an inexperienced quarterback, inexperienced linemen and a general lack of depth in all positions.

"The young offensive line should get better as the season progresses," the coach added.

Some of the new players worth watching this year include quarterback Charlie Mitchell, tackle Billy Cuevas and tight end Tim Allen.

Returning players from last year include Darrin Washington, Heath Hopgood, Doral

Nichols, Travis Haynes and Douglas Rhodes.

Offensive line starters will probably include Alex Oliva, center; Bryan Favre and Nichols, guard; and Heath Hop-good and Billy Cuevas or Harry Moril, tackles.

In the offensive backfield, fans will probably see Mitchell at quarterback, Haynes at fullback and Washington at halfback.

Prospective receivers include Alvin Dedeaux with Tim Allen at tight end and Randy Ellis or Thomas Brink.

The team will be using a multiple offensive combined with a 50-style defense.

That defense is expected to include Nichols at wingback; Hopgood and Cuevas at tackle, and Buddy Bourn and Washington at end, backed by Oliva with Haynes or David LeGros.

Conference games for the Tigers include their opener against Stone County, as well as Pearl River County, Vancleave, Pass Christian and Hancock North Central.

BY D.C. HARVILL

The 1988 Hancock North Central Hawks football team under the direction of Head Coach Irving Favre, coming off a 7-2 season in 1987, is looking forward to a successful season this year.

Coach Favre said the team's strongest point is its offensive line and if they have a weakness, it is a lack of depth, with 8 members playing both offense and defense.

The tentative starting lineup on offense includes Doodle Doyle, split end; Keith Sellier, tight end; Rene Chaisson and Joe Vittur, tackles; Marty Smith and Keith Meranto, guards; Don Hunter, center; Jeff Moran, quarter back; Terrance Goff and Tirus Jackson, half backs; and Tater Graham, full back.

On the tentative defensive starting lineup are Keith Moranto and Keith Sellier, defensive ends; Marty Smith and Jimmy Esposito, tackles; Doodle Doyle and Tater Graham, inside line backers; Tirus Jackson and Heath Necaize, outside line backers; Casey Davis and Ricky Boyette, corners; and Jeff Moran, safety.

PRC's Nelson names starting player slots

One, he's not going to be over-confident, and two, he's going to have an offense that can score in many different ways.

"We've had an attitude adjustment since last year," said Nelson, who is entering his fourth year as head of the PRC Wildcats. "We're going to let our actions on the field speak for us this year."

Last season the Wildcats were picked to be in the chase for the Mississippi Junior College South Division crown and state playoff.

What happened was a mid-season slide which led to a so-so 5-5 year. It was not what the Wildcats or the 'Cats' fans expected. Not by any stretch of the imagination.

"We learned a good lesson last year," said Nelson. "We will not be over-confident here in '88."

PRC opened the '87 season with a 58-0 shellacking of the Coahoma Tigers. After that, rival Jones handed the Cats a surprising 13-6 setback. In that same contest, one-third of the Wildcat offense was lost for nearly five weeks.

Mid-way through the first half, star running back Thurman Geathers injured a knee and had to be assisted off the field. "Without Thurman, we had no immediate threat," said Nelson. "It took us a while before we could revamp our offense."

Without Geathers, the Wildcats turned into a 'four yards and a cloud of dust' team. The offense produced the yardage and the points as the team out-scored their opponents 279-159 and produced run productions of 438 yards against Co-Lin, 358 against Delta and 352 against Coahoma.

All three games ranked in the top ten ground yardage games in the school's history. Coupled with 903 passing yards, PRC gathered 3,645 all-purpose yards, ranking third on the school's all-time list.

"Our defense was just not stout enough," said Nelson. "They thought they were good, and I think that was one of the main problems."

Here in 1988, the Wildcats will have a strong, quick offensive backfield to go along with a big, inexperienced line.

Coming back is freshman starter Roland Johnson (214) of Hattiesburg. Nelson calls Johnson a leader and a super athlete. "Roland is the kind of kid I want all my other players to model after," said Nelson.

Teaming up with Johnson is state champion Picayune High sensation Demetri Hall. Hall is a 188-pound fullback who has strength and quickness. He also comes from a very successful, winning program.

Backing up Hall is Bassfield's William Earl Harper. Harper, at 223 pounds, has experience and a lot of ability.

The big difference for the Wildcats is the speed at the wingback and wide-receiver slots. Terry Carter (180) is from Pearl River, La. and Nolan Booker is a 1985 Wildcat player from Covington, who is back to finish up his two-year career.

"These two players give us the deep threat we did not have last year," said Nelson. "Both players have speed and quick moves." Booker played for the Cats in '85 and did an outstanding job, especially when you consider his brother was killed in an accident and his mother died during the season.

"Nolan has matured and really has his life straightened out," said Nelson. "I'm happy to see him do so well."

At tight end is Ulysses Jones, a 6' 5", 269-pound specimen, who has great hands and speed. "Ulysses needs to lose about 15 pounds, but other than that he's a terrific player," said Nelson. "Look for him to really be in the thick of things this year."

On the offensive line, coach Mike Harris is having to start over. There is only one sophomore starter and that's either James Philyaw (235) of Pearl River Central High School or Johnny Bass (225) of Oak Grove. Look for Philyaw to start.

The new faces include Picayune star Jackson Hall (274) at center, Jason Dugas (245) from St. Martinville, La. at left guard, and tackles Chris Watts (275) and Blaine Miller (260).

Watts is from Hattiesburg and is starting at right-tackle slot.

"Our offensive line is actually larger than last year," said Nelson. "They average 258 pounds and are very quick. They are also very freshman-like."

According to Nelson, the fact that the Wildcats will have a deep-threat will really assist the offensive line. "If we can score without having to keep the ball for seven or eight minutes, I think it will give our guys up front a chance to mature and get the experience they need."

At the quarterback position, sophomore Scott Nease is holding down the first position. However, freshman Eric Brister of Bogalusa has been looking good.

Scott has the experience and the leadership ability we need at this point," said Nelson. "But, you can bet Eric will see playing time early in the year. He has so much talent you just can't keep him on the bench."

Nease was injured during the final twice-a-day workouts and will be out for several days. It is a possibility that Brister may have to be called on to start against Itawamba. "That all depends on how soon Scott gets back into action," said Nelson.

Freshman Keith Hutchins of Prentiss really knows the mechanics of the game and will also see action during the season.

On defense, look for the tandem freshman combination of Frank Denard (290) from Hattiesburg and Sondray Taylor (235) of Picayune to play havoc on the opposing offense.

"They are really terrific players," said Nelson. "I mean they are really some kind of horses." Taylor was moved to the right-tackle position when Gerald Geathers failed to show for fall practice. "We'll miss Geathers," said Nelson. "But Sondray will do just fine."

A strong linebacker is Raymond Spiers (235) of Carriere, who is a transfer from Mississippi College. At middle-linebacker is another transfer, Robert Earl Jones (235), a Hattiesburg product who was at Jackson State last season.

Anthony Bowie (230) is back for his second year with the Cats. Bowie, from Monroe, La. will also team up with all-state player Greg Necaise (225) from Bay St. Louis.

In the defensive backfield, Poplarville's Chris Bates will return at strong safety along with Bassfield's Sean Burns. Picayune sophomore David Johnston is holding on to the right-corner spot at this time, and Keith Smith is at free-safety.

Charles Kindred will be able to play the third game of the season at free safety. He received a hardship eligibility status for this year. This means the backfield will probably bounce around a bit during the first two games.

Names like Robert Longino of Hattiesburg and Kenneth Bullock of Bogalusa will certainly show up in the defensive secondary. Don't forget the name Monwell Magee of Brooklyn. He will also see action.

The kicking game at this time is being handled by Malter Scobel. Scobel, from Bay St. Louis, is a transfer from LSU.

In practice here. Friday, he kicked a 56-yard field goal. He will also handle the extra-point chores.

Sean Burns and Keith Hutchins are working at punting.

The Wildcats will start the season against Itawamba from the north division. "I look for Itawamba to be the favorites in the north this season," said Nelson. "They will have a good football team."

"I like the fact we are opening with such a strong contender," said Nelson. "It will give us the test we need for our defense and our freshmen."

Ole Miss defensive line crucial to success in '88

You might call them "the forgotten ones."

While there may be other groups of players who receive much of the glory, the defensive linemen hold the key to a successful football team. At Ole Miss, this could very well hold true for the 1988 season.

Five players with experience on the collegiate level return to anchor the defensive line this fall. Throw in several others and the prospects begin to look brighter.

"If we can keep everybody healthy and on their game, I feel like we can have a strong interior unit," said defensive line coach Robert Youngblood. "We're still going to be a young group of players with only one senior inside, but we have several players that have seen a lot of action in the past."

Leading the group will be senior right tackle Rodney Lowe (6-5, 250). He ranked third on the squad last year in tackles with 98, including 56 solos, and was one of only four Rebels to start every game. The Pompano Beach, Fla. native is a three-year starter and will be counted on heavily this fall.

"Rodney has been a good player here for us and I expect another good year from him this fall," said Youngblood. "We need him to step in and be one of our leaders this fall."

Lowe has been compared by some to former Rebel defensive end Freddie Joe Nunn, now with the Phoenix Cardinals of the National Football League.

"They played different positions, but they do have a lot of similarities," said Youngblood. "Like Freddie Joe, Rodney has excellent quickness and a knack for finding the ball."

Junior Dan Wigley started ten games at left defensive tackle and will have to fight off Doug Jacobs, a transfer from the University of South Carolina, to start another season.

Wigley registered 41 tackles last season and has spent the off-season working on his strength and agility. "Dan has really improved from last season," said Youngblood about the 6-3½, 265 junior from Pascagoula.

Jacobs will finally see his first collegiate action this fall after spending a redshirt season at USC and sitting out at Ole Miss last year. Jacobs (6-8, 262), a sophomore from Mocksville, N.C., emerged from the spring drills as the number one left tackle, moving just ahead of Wigley. His size and good quickness will give the Rebels another dimension in their pass-rush and run-defense game this fall.

"We're counting on Doug to be an outstanding player," said Youngblood. "He has a lot of ability and potential and I feel like he has made a good adjustment this past spring."

Darryl Smith (6-0, 245) will start at the nose guard spot. The junior from Jackson is relatively small for a nose guard but has started the past two years, drawing nothing but accolades from his coaches.

"Darryl has been an extraordinary player for us," said Youngblood. "He's always tried to get his weight up, but just goes out each week and plays as hard as he can and does a good job. I feel like he could really be a key element to our attack this fall."

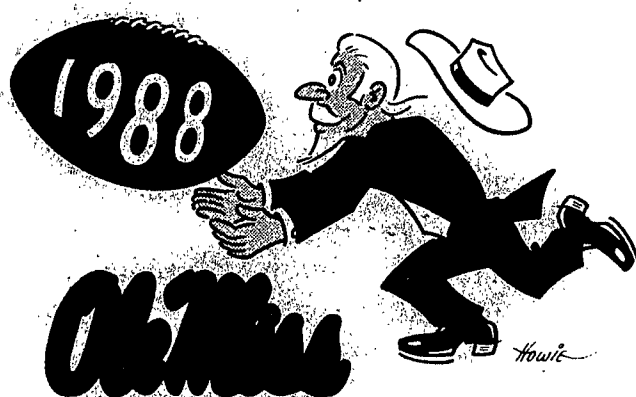

Smith had 68 tackles last year and had a strong spring game with eight tackles, including two tackles for loss.

Sophomore Kelvin Pritchett (6-3, 258), a sophomore from Atlanta, Ga., saw action in seven games last season as a true freshman, registering six tackles, and will back up Smith at nose guard. Junior Wayne Muckle (6-1, 268), a junior from Monroe, Ga., has been plagued by injuries in the past, but appears to be in good shape heading into the fall, and will add further depth at the nose guard slot.

Brian Cagle (6-6, 260), a sophomore from Savannah, Tenn., played in five games last year and will play behind Lowe again this season. And, sophomore Lee Lott (6-6, 270), a sophomore from Puckett, Miss., who played on the offensive line last year, has been switched to defense for this campaign.

Pass High Pirates looking at a season of improvement

BY D.C. HARVILL

The 1988 version of Pass Christian High School's Pirates football team, under new Head Coach Joseph Brown, is looking forward to a season of improvement after coming off a no-win season in 1987.

"We are going to be young and inexperienced on the defensive and offensive lines. If our seniors provide good leadership and the young linemen develop at a rapid rate we are going to be okay," said Brown, a five year veteran of the Pass coaching staff.

Of the 39 players on this year's team 13 are returns, including, seniors, Eric Dawkins, Derrick Benoit, Patrick Bonney, Jarrod Page, Raymond Ladner and Jerry Collier; juniors, LaShan Ausmer, Sean Ausmer and Jarrod McCollister; sophomores, Samy Taylor, Ramone Jacobs and Chris Dedeaux.

Brown said new players to watch include, sophomores, Willie Earl Washington, Thad Williams, Donald Knight, Terrance Lawton, Charles Lizana, Travis Lewis and Renaldo Delavallade; junior, Chris Lang; seniors, Hai Mai and Anthony Murrell.

Brown feels the team's defense and its kicking game will be its strong points.

The coach said it is too early to say who will be at each position.

However, he did say on the offensive line Thad Williams and Patrick Bonney will be at tackle; Shawn Dedeaux and Donald Knight at guard and Anthony Peranich at center.

He has narrowed quarterback down to Sean Ausmer, Tracey Watts or Sammy Taylor; running back, Eric Dawkins or Derrick Benoit; and at fullback, Charles Lizana or Willie Washington.

At split-end will be either LaShan Ausmer or Jarrod Page; flanker, Chris Lang or Jarrod McCollister and at tight end, Jimmy Ladner or Russell Watson.

The coach said the team will utilize a multiple offense.

On the defensive line will be Tim Murrell or Chris Dedeaux, Terrance Lawton or Jerry Collier and Anthony Peranich.

Backers will be LaShan Ausmer or Derrick Benoit and Jimmy Ladner or Donald Knight.

Prospective ends include Willie Washington or Raymond Ladner and Ramone Jacobs, Sammy Taylor or Burt Barrere. The team will go with the 50 defense.

"We will work hard on improving our attitudes. We are going to be very enthusiastic about the game. I also feel the players will have greater concentration this year. We are also working on developing good work habits," Brown said.

The coach said his philosophy about the game and life centers around the team concept. "We think team first, team mates second, and the individual third. This way the team will always be number one."

Assisting Coach Brown at the helm of the Pirates are four-year Pass veteran, Tim Bryant and newcomer Forrest Winfield.

The Pirates begin their season at home Sept. 2 against St. John.
